Samburg Port Wine.

This new article of American Wine is meeting with uncommon favor in European circles, and highly esteemed by the best physicians in this country. Mr. Speer, who has spent years in travelling, first came across this grape in Oporto, which he is now successfully cultivating in this country, from which he makes his celebrated wine. We understand a number of cases were ordered to Washington for the use of the military hospital there. The following is a testimonial we saw from the New York Hospital. We publish it for the information of our readers:

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.

I am using Speer's Samburg Port Wine, and find it to be an excellent tonic and gentle stimulant, and as such I believe it preferable to the commercial port, and all other wines, as it possesses their tonic properties without the deleterious effects caused by their impurities. It is also very palatable, and this is a recommendation to many, especially to females.

S. S. HARRIS, M. D.,
New York Hospital.

This is an excellent article for family use and for females. Our Druggists have it for sale.

Warm Weather.

The warm weather of the past few days has caused quite an inquiry for something light to wear, and, by the way, we notice that Wm. Fleming, No. 139 Wood street, has the most complete assortment of summer suits to be found in the city. Gentlemen's fine beaver, felt, fine silk and cassimere hats; the new patent steel spring hat, that sits so easy and gracefully on the head, and retains its shape until worn out. Straw goods for men, boys and children; ladies and misses hats, all of which will be sold at a reduction according to the times.

Theatre—Last Week of the Season.

The last of Miss Annie Eberle and J. O. Sefton in the Pittsburgh Theatre. Sefton takes his farewell benefit on Tuesday next. He presents the greatest dramatic treat of the year, namely: Paul Pry, King of Clubs, and Solon Shingle. Friday Miss Eberle takes her farewell benefit. Let both benefits be bumpers. Secure seats at once.

A Present Indeed.

At Chicago Messrs. Smith & Nixon have just received the bill of lading of a splendid Steinway Piano that they have had finished expressly as a donation from themselves to the Sanitary Fair. The fortunate possessor of this instrument, we will venture to say, will secure a good one, as the "Steinways" are above suspicion.

McClelland's Shoe Emporium.

The attention of our readers is called to the large and elegant stock of boots, shoes, gaiters, slippers, &c., for ladies', misses', Gent's, boy's, youth's and children's wear, now being offered at private sale at the lowest prices at McClelland's Auction House, No. 55 Fifth Street.

It is Beyond all Doubt

That the largest quantity and greatest variety of books that have been brought to this city the last three weeks have been sold at the Book Publishers' Presentation Depot, where you will receive a present with every book purchased. Call or send for a catalogue, No. 74 Fifth street.

THE PULPIT.—In consequence of changes now being made in our composing room, we are compelled to omit a sermon this morning.

VALLANDIGHAM HATH SPOKEN.—This recluse politician, who, since the Ides of November last, has given no utterance audible to the public ear, has once more opened his oracular lips. His profound seclusion, whether in Dayton or in Canada, we know not, and his equally profound meditations on the logic of events, have had a most favorable effect on his political views. He has been gently drawn to conclusions quite opposite to those which he most dearly cherished when visiting with his friends in the city of Chicago some time last summer. He with great candor and courtesy concludes now that the war for the Union has not been a failure, and pleasantly indulges the belief that the South will be better without slavery than with it; that Mr. Johnson will make a good President; and that the Union will thrive and prosper. We are greatly rejoiced at his conversion.

CRUELTY TO GEN. SHERMAN.—Lately the fishy Union Democrats in Kentucky endorsed the agreement entered into by SHERMAN with JOHNSTON, and now certain papers of the same sort propose to run him for Governor of Ohio. The General has overcome an ugly enemy in many places, but this use of his name bids fair to vanquish him. It is downright cruelty.

THE WOOL TRADE.—The wool trade in Indiana County opens rather dull this season, the merchants there refusing to pay more than fifty cents per pound for a good article, which is much lower than the opening prices of last Spring. The wool clip in Mahoning county, Ohio, promises to be a heavy one this season. As to prices in that region, the outside figures mentioned are forty-five and sixty cents.

THE FAMILY TREASURE.—We have received this monthly for June. Among its articles, we notice a second paper on the Rev. Lyman Beecher, by Dr. McClure; an Educated Ministry, by Dr. Bittinger; the interesting story, "The Sterlings;" and also "Minehikoff." It is a good number of a good Periodical.

COMING TO TERMS.—The planters in Tennessee and Northern Mississippi are, as a general rule, making arrangements to pay their hands fair wages. Some of the old planters, averse to hiring those whom they regard as their slaves, resort to various dodges. Some of them make bargains with the negroes, and agree to clothe and feed them well for a term of years, and then give each of the blacks a piece of land in fee simple. The majority contract to give the negroes a certain proportion of the crop, or a certain sum per bale. One wealthy old fellow in Northern Mississippi, has made a will in which he donates to his slaves all his lands and hard cash when he dies, provided they will work faithfully on the plantations to that time.

A gentleman who called on Gen. Scott, in New York, the other day, found him in excellent health, and much rejoiced at the successful termination of the war. The conversation turning on Jeff. Davis, the old General very pointedly and emphatically remarked, "I hope he will be hung by the neck, sir; I hope he will hang by the neck."

ARRIVAL OF TROOPS.—The 29th Michigan regiment arrived in the city last evening at 11½ o'clock, from Washington, en route for home and were met at the depot by a delegation from the Subsistence Committee, who marched them to City Hall, where a bountiful supper had been supplied for them. The Great Western Band headed the procession, and played a number of patriotic airs. The soldiers appeared much pleased at the reception they received. After supper the regiment reformed and marched to the railroad depot, where a train was waiting to convey them to their destination.

SERENADE.—Thanks to the string band of the Allegheny Steam Fire Engine Company, for their repeated serenades of the Commercial office.

Public Amusements.

THEATRE.—Mr. Kean gave us Shylock, in the Merchant of Venice last evening. He evidently made no effort to excel in his performance of the character, but went through with it in an apparently indifferent manner. To-night, Richard III is announced, when Mr. W. C. Gallagher, our popular townsman, will appear, for this night only, as Richmond.

Mr. Lincoln's Fondness for Jokes.

Mr. Carpenter in his personal recollections of Mr. Lincoln speaks of his fondness for humor, and the apparent necessity of humorous reading and conversation to his daily life. He also corrects a popular error:

It has been well said by a profound critic of Shakespeare, and it occurs to me as very appropriate in this connection, that "the spirit which held the woe of Lear and the tragedy of Hamlet would have broken had it not also had the humor of the Merry Wives of Windsor and the merriment of Midsummer Night's Dream." This is as true of Mr. Lincoln as it was of Shakspeare. The capacity to tell and enjoy an anecdote no doubt prolonged his life. I have often heard this asserted by one of his most intimate friends. And the public impression of him in this respect was not exaggerated. Mr. Beecher once observed to me of his own wealth of illustration that he "thought in figures," or, in other words, that an argument habitually took on that form in his mind. This was pre-eminently true of Mr. Lincoln. The "points" of his argument were driven home, in this way, as they could be in no other. In the social circle this characteristic had full play. I never knew him to sit down with a friend for a five minutes' chat, without being "reminded" of something about somebody alluded to in the course of the conversation. In a corner of his desk he kept a copy of some humorous work, and it was frequently his habit, when greatly fatigued, annoyed, or depressed, to take this up and read a chapter, with great relief.

The Saturday evening before he left Washington to go to the front, just previous to the capture of Richmond, I was with him from seven o'clock till nearly twelve. It had been a very hard day with him. The pressure of office-seekers was greater at this juncture than I ever knew it to be, and he was almost worn out. Among the callers that evening was a party composed of a Senator, a Representative an ex-Lieutenant Governor of a Western State and several private citizens. They had business of great importance, involving the necessity of the President's examination of voluminous documents. Pushing everything aside, he said to one of the party, "Have you seen the Nasby Papers?" "No, I have not," was the answer; "who is Nasby?" "There is a chap out in Ohio," returned the President, "who has been writing a series of letters in the newspapers over the signature of Petroleum V. Nasby. Some one sent me a pamphlet collection of them the other day. I am going to write to 'Petroleum' to come down here, and I intend to tell him if he will communicate his talent to me I will swap places with him!" Thereupon he arose, went to a drawer in his desk, and, taking out the "letters," he sat down and read one to the company, finding in their enjoyment the temporary excitement and relief which another man would have found in a glass of grog! The instant he had ceased, the book was thrown aside, and his countenance relapsed into its habitual serious expression, and the business was entered upon with the utmost earnestness.

Just here, I may say with propriety, and I feel that it is due to Mr. Lincoln's memory to state, that, during the entire period of my stay in Washington, after witnessing his intercourse with almost all classes of people, including governors, senators, members of Congress, officers of the army and familiar friends, I cannot recollect to have ever heard him relate a circumstance to any one of them all that would have been out of place in a lady's drawing-room! I am aware that a different impression prevails, founded it may be in some instances upon facts, but where there is one fact of the kind I am persuaded that there are forty falsehoods, at least. At any rate, what I have stated is voluntary testimony, from a stand point, I submit, entitled to respectful consideration.

A Fleet for Europe.

The many naval officers in Washington are much excited in relation to the approaching rendezvous of Admiral Goldsboro's fleet at Fortress Monroe. This fleet will be composed of from thirty to sixty sail, and will depart for the Mediterranean, on a three years' cruise, about the 4th of July. The naval officers are gesticulating excitedly with each other as to who shall stay behind. The New Ironsides and two double-turreted monitors will make part of the fleet. The flag-ship will be the Colorado. She will drop anchor for several months in the harbor of Marseilles, and then the rest of the fleet will scatter for various points of the sea.

About ten vessels will cruise about the British Isles and in the North Sea. The ocean at the time of year designated is generally as smooth as a duck pond, and the iron clads, it is presumed, will get across bravely. Admiral Goldsborough's private boat will be a small steam vessel, formerly called the A. D. Vance. The object of this expedition is to acquaint our pilots with European harbors and to attest the seagoing qualities of our marine, as well as to show Europe the advances we have made in naval architecture and gunnery.

We shall lose nothing by thus plainly exhibiting our strength, as every board of admiralty in Europe has already plans and models of every gunboat we have built during the war. There is nothing out of the way in this cruise. Before the war we made such expeditions frequently; but now we shall send abroad more vessels than before constituted our entire navy. The world, therefore, will get some inkling of us; heretofore its acquaintance with the States has been chiefly derived from rebel privateers.

The Deerhound may come out if she chooses to see the brothers and sisters of the Kearsarge. Admiral Goldsborough is an excellent talker, and will do the oratory for the Jack Tars of the West. This expedition will make an era in the history of the continent. The present will miss more than that ever discovered.

Arrest of One of the Supposed Conspirators in Buffalo.

"The Buffalo (N. Y.) Commercial Advertiser of last evening says: "Not having been enjoined to silence, we suppose there is no harm in mentioning the fact that a person is now in custody in this city on suspicion of being concerned in the plot for the assassination of the President. A man who registered his name as W. D. Beers came to Bonney's Hotel some days since, probably two weeks ago, and took apartments there. His business and destination was unknown, and no particular notice was taken of him until one day a card, on which was written the following, in the same hand as that in which Beers' name was written on the register, was picked up, we are informed, somewhere near the entrance to his room:

"'E. C. Delhi: As Booth is dead and Davis caught, there is but little hopes for the Cr—e God must have prevented our plans from being executed. If Surratt had not failed our plans would have been carried out, Virginia regained, and our cause saved. All is lost.

"'P. S.—You failed. If I live I will expose you. Surratt should die. I wish to live; but I think that we are all surrounded, and will be caught.'

"Beers was arrested at the Bonney House, on Thursday last, by United States Detective Emerick, and lodged in jail, where he still remains. We presume the facts in the case have been forwarded to Washington for the consideration of the authorities, but of this we have no knowledge. We understand that Josiah Cook was sent for by the accused to act as counsel, but in obedience to the orders of the Provost Marshal prohibiting all intercourse with him, Mr. Cook was not admitted."

THE FRUIT REGION IN ILLINOIS.—The Peoria Farmer publishes an account of a trip to the fruit region of Illinois. Cobden, or South Pass, is the principal fruit depot. In this region there are about two hundred acres of bearing strawberries, but the crop this season was seriously injured by the late April frost. But the shipments commenced at the rate of 80 to 125 bushels per day and in the height of the season they were sent off by the car load. In large fruits one planter has 30,000 peach trees, 7,000 apple and 8,000 grape vines, besides some acres of the small fruits. Another has 2,600 peach trees. Several other planters have orchards, and in general, a fine yield is expected. At Makanda, one planter sold his peach crop in a single season for $12,000. Another man near the station 150 acres in fruit, with 17,500 peach, 3,600 apple, 500 pear trees, 12 acres of grapes, &c. Another grower has 16,000 peach trees, another 8,000, another 3,000, several others 3,000, and one has from 6,000 to 8,000 apple trees. Several other growers have more limited orchards. At Du Quoin one grower has 8,000 peach trees and within twelve miles around there are some 16,000 peach trees. At Centralia, one man has 112 acres mostly in peaches. Another has 111 acres in fruit and has about 30,000 grape vines. Other large growers are in this vicinity. The grape vines and indeed all the fruit trees, bushes and vines, are in a flourishing condition.

SOUTHERN ANARCHY.—The Montgomery Mail of the 18th has the following: "We publish this morning a statement from the Constitutionalist of shameful outlawery recently committed in that city by returning soldiers. The thing is entirely unworthy of soldiers who, for four long years, have been in the field, enduring all manner of hardships in defense of their homes. In addition to the mortifying statements of the Constitutionalist, we have experienced in our city conduct totally reprehensible. The work of sacking and pillaging commenced about 11 o'clock yesterday morning, and was kept up at intervals until the same hours last night. We were surprised and astonished that soldiers who have been our defenders so long should turn out to be our worst enemies, for a mob is the worst enemy that ever cursed a community."

JAPANESE ARTS.—Japanese art is causing a great excitement in Paris, where they are going mad about it. Not only as to boxes and a thousand trinkets, but as to painting natural objects, particularly heads, the Japs teach us everything. It is said there will a large exhibition of absolute Japanese paintings by them at the next Paris exposition! The mania has bitten Englishmen as well. Among the American artists in Paris who rave on this subject is Babcock. Some of the Japanese bronzes are declared to be ravishing. There is a bronze Neptune revived by an American, stated to be worthy of Cellini. Ohrai is the wonderful "old master" of Japan. James Jackson Jarves, our best American art critic, is now in Paris, very busily engaged in studying this new revelation from the East, and in a forthcoming edition of the "Art Idea, will devote several chapters to it.

"A bachelor of thirty years" writes to the Country Gentleman for a recipe for bean soup. A lady correspondent replies: "Get a woman that knows how to make it."

The Meaning of Booth's Oil Business.

PAYNE INSANE AND ATZEROTT IN LOVE.

HARROLD A DULL STUDENT.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

The Judge Advocate announced this evening that he was advised that the Government has

Concluded its Testimony in Chief in the assassination trial, and that it is not probable that there will be any necessity for offering rebutting evidence. The defense may occupy two or three days more in presenting their testimony.

In the letter introduced to-day, addressed to J. W. B. at the National Hotel, we have the solution of the mystery about the

Oil Business

And the meaning of Booth and his confederates when they used the term would appear clearly to be the assassination of the President and the other heads of the Government.

The Plea of Insanity

Is offered in behalf of Payne, and the prisoner appears to be astonished and amused as anybody at the idea of making it appear that he is mad. When the matter was referred to in the first instance, Payne smiled, and then blushed up into the hair of his head. He hung his head with a faint indication of shame when the testimony was given, which showed that he knocked a servant girl down and stamped upon her for refusing to clean up his room in the house where he was boarding in February last.

The plea of insanity is not made in behalf of Atzerott as has been announced in some of the newspapers. It is

Love

That his counsel pleads as the madness which affected his client, but this, like many other propositions of counsel, cannot be seriously pressed. The early occasion when this pressure manifested any sensitiveness since the trial began, was when it was first said that he had a tender regard for a young German woman up in the country. When the subject was referred to Atzerott doubled himself up and hid his face and head behind the prisoners' railing and there remained until the evidence took another turn and diverted the attention of the audience from him.

Miss Surratt

Has been released from custody, and sat during the entire session to-day within a few feet of and separated from her mother by the prisoners' railing. They were not permitted to converse, but occasionally were observed looking wistfully at each other and making significant signs. The daughter seems to be suffering poignant grief.

Among the efforts being made on behalf of Harrold is the showing that he is exceedingly dull, bordering on idiocy. It was proven among other things of like character that when he attended the Pittsborough Academy he was backward in his studies, but ambitious to pursue the higher branches, and on the application of his father was permitted to take up geometry. Harrold came up for first recitation with a very learned air, and answered the questions as follows: Question—What is a circle? Answer—"A circle, sir, is a round thing, with the centre in the middle." Such are the straws at which these sinking prisoners catch.

The attendance of visitors to the trial is undiminished, and to-day the court room was packed to its utmost capacity, notwithstanding the very sultry weather, which has made the atmosphere in the room almost unbearable.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

Several witnesses were called to-day to show that Spangler was at his boarding house in Washington a day or two after the assassination.

Thomas J. Reynolds, employed at Ford's theatre, testified that two weeks before the assassination, Booth occupied box 7, adjoining that in which the President was subsequently shot. On the 7th of March the witness, not being able to find the key, broke open box No. 7, in order to admit a gentleman with his company.

Two witnesses employed at the theatre, had exhibited to them the rope found in Spangler's carpet bag. It resembled a similar rope used in the theatre; could not say positively it was the same.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

After the reading of the record the examination of witnesses for the defense was resumed.

Charles Bryler and John Funber testified that Spangler was at his boarding house in Washington several days after the assassination. The latter never saw Spangler wear a moustache.

Thos. Reybold testified about the 7th of March Mr. Merrick, of the National Hotel, asked him to reserve some seats in the orchestra, and that he did so. The party not having arrived at the first act, the seats were occupied by other persons. I took them to box number six, which was locked, and could not be entered; I then crossed to boxes seven and eight, generally called the President's boxes, which were also locked. I kicked the door open with my foot. When the President occupied the box we used the door of box eight. The door was used on the night of the assassination. I don't know that the lock was ever repaired. I never thought of having it fixed. Never thought it worth while to mention it. Booth occupied box seven, the one in which the lock was fixed, on a night about two weeks previous to the assassination. He had engaged box four, but requested a change to box seven. The position of the chairs which the President sat was the same which I had fixed on two other occasions. The reason was that if placed in any other position, the rockers would be in the way. The removal of the partition to the left of the balustrade of the box and rockers were in that corner of the way. That was the only reason I put it there. [Witness was shown the rope found in Spangler's carpet bag, and said it looked like ropes used in the flies for drawing up swings and called "border rope."]

Cross-examined—Don't think the proper place for such a rope would have been in a carpet sack a half a mile away. Don't think Spangler supplied us with rope of his own; sometimes we use a great many of these, and then put them up in the loft till we use them again. I was in the box about five minutes on the afternoon before the assassination; didn't notice a mortice in the wall, or piece of wood to fasten the door.

Henry E. Merrick, clerk in the National Hotel, testified to similar purport with preceding witness, as to the forcing open of the door of the box by a Mr. Reynolds, the keeper. Thinks the lock was forced off; at least the screw that held the upper part of the keeper came out, and it swung round and hung by the remaining screw.

James Lamb testified: Am scene painter at Ford's Theater. [The rope found in Spangler's possession was shown to witness.] Have seen ropes like that used in the theater ropes of that description bear some similarity. The length is not less than eight feet; they are used for raising and lowering the corders. Saw Spangler several times the day after the assassination, in the theatre. My feelings were excited, and I remained on the spot the whole day.

Wm. R. Smith testified to seeing Booth pass off the stage; think he got off before Mr. Stewart or anybody else got on the stage. I saw Stewart turn round and look up at the box in which the President had been murdered; did not watch him any further.

Jacob Rittersfaugh, former witness for the prosecution, testified he was on the stage the day of the assassination; saw a man in the dress circle smoking a cigar; I asked Spangler who he was; he said he did not know; I said we ought to tell him to go out, and Spangler said he had no right there; I resumed my work and after awhile looked around again, and saw the man sitting in a private box on the right hand side of the stage; after that the man went out.

Cross-examined—Have no idea who the man was; it was about six o'clock on the evening of the assassination; he was in a private box, one of the lower boxes in the dress circle, on the right hand side of the stage.

Louis J. Carland testified that on the night after the assassination, Ritterspaugh was asleep in Mr. Gifford's room; on my awaking him he appeared frightened and thought I was Booth; I asked where Spangler was; he told me he did not know, that when he last saw Spangler he was standing behind the scenes, first after Booth ran out of the theatre, and that he said to Spangler, "that was Mr. Booth," when Spangler slapped him on the mouth and said, "You don't know who it was. It might have been Mr. Booth, and it might have been somebody else."

Question—Did Mr. Rittersbaugh tell you that Spangler slapped him in the face and said, "Don't say which way he went."

Answer—No, sir.

Question—Did he tell you anything to that effect?

Answer—No, sir.

Question—Where was Spangler when you first saw him after the assassination? Answer. In the theatre, on the stage. I was in his company until Sunday night; when I went to the Hermann House, and he went to sleep in the theatre. I suppose he left me to go there to sleep. On Saturday night he was going to sleep in the theater as usual, but there was some talk about burning the theatre, and being a heavy sleeper he was afraid to sleep there. So he came to my room and I let him sleep there all night. On Sunday morning I went to church and met him again in the street near the theatre. We walked around that afternoon and sported in the evening. Spangler had very little change. Booth stayed about the theatre a great deal and was on very intimate terms with the employees. He seemed to become familiar with people on very short acquaintance.

The rope found in Spangler's carpet bag was shown to witness, when he stated it resembled one used by Spangler and Ritterspaugh about two weeks before the assassination to carry up some lumber to the fourth story of the theatre. He thought it had the appearance of having been used, and of having lain out of doors.

James and you testified to Rittersbaugh telling him the day after the assassination of a conversation with Spangler; he was grumbling, and saying it was well for Ned, he had not something in his hand; I asked him why; said he—"He struck me last night a very hard blow," and said, "Shut up" at the same time, saying, "You know nothing about it." He said he was acquainted with Booth, and remarked to Spangler—"I know who that was; that was Booth who ran out;" then he said, "Shut up; keep quiet; what do you know about him?"

Question—Did or did not Rittersbaugh say that Spangler said to him, "Do not say which way he went," or words to that effect? Answer—He did not; I am sure.

George Bunker, clerk at the National Hotel, testified to finding a large sized gimlet in Booth's trunk; I afterwards gave it to Mr. Hall, who was attending to Mr. Ford's business. Have not seen Jno. McCullough, the actor, in Washington since the 28th of March.

Charles B. Hall testified he has been clerk for Mr. Wharton, sutler at Fortress Monroe; Arnold assisted me at book-keeping for two weeks and one day; I saw him every day; he made application for employment in March.

Geo. Craig gave testimony similar to the last witness.

James Lusby testified to seeing John M. Lloyd in Marlboro on Good Friday; he and I went to Surrattville that day; he was very drunk; saw Mrs. Surratt there, just starting to go home; she left about fifteen minutes afterward.

On cross-examination witness stated that he was not quite as tight as Lloyd.

Matthew J. Pope testified that a gentleman called at his stable to sell a large bay horse, blind of one eye; the features of the man were like those of Atzerott; if he is the one he is not near so stout as then; I told him I didn't want to buy a horse; he went away with a man named John Barr, and after while came back and took the horse away. Barr is a wheelwright in the Navy Yard; thinks it was several days before the assassination. I have found an umbrella left by the man.

Miss Margaret Bronson testified that she met Payne at Gettysburg the morning after the battle.

Dr. Nichols, Superintendent of the Government Military Asylum, was called for the accused. If he said a man attempts to murder a sick man in bed, whom he had not before seen, and others in the same house, witness would suspect him to be insane. Witness would suppose that this was feigning madness; madmen seldom say they are mad. If he would abandon his horse, wander in the woods, and make his way to a house which he would suspect to be guarded, witness would suppose he was indifferent to the consequences.

Margaret Kaighin, servant in the house of Mrs. Brannon, testified to a quarrel between Payne and a negro servant girl. She refused to clean his room. He struck her, threw her down, stamped on her, and said he would kill her. She went to have him arrested in consequence.

Mr. Dawson, clerk in the National Hotel, testified to the receipt of the following letter at that hotel:

SOUTH BRANCH BRIDGE, April 6th, 1865.

FRIEND WILKES: I received yours of March 12th and reply as soon as practicable. I saw French, Brady and others about an oil speculation. The subscriptions to the stock amount to $8,000, and I add $1,000 more, which is about all I can stand now. When you sink your well go deep enough. Dont fail. Everything depends on you and your helpers. If you can't get through on your trip after you strike "ile," strike through Thornton Gap and across by Capon Romney and down Branch, and I can keep you safe from all hardship for a year. I am clear of all surveillance now that infernal Purdy is beat. I hired that girl to charge him with outrage and reported him to old Kelly, which sent him in shade, but he suspects too damn much now. Had he better be silenced, for good? I send this up by Tom, and if he don't get drunk you will get it. At all events it can't be understood if lost. I can't half write. I have been drunk for two days. Don't write much hifalutin next time. No more only Jake will be at Green's with friends. Burn this.

[Signed.] Truly Yours, LEON.

Sue Guthrie sends much love.

Mailed at Cumberland, Md., May 8th.

This letter, according to the post mark, was mailed at Cumberland, Maryland, May 11, although it is dated May 6th.

Question—To whom besides Wilkes Booth, who stopped at your hotel, do these initials belong? Answer—As far as I remember, I don't know any body else.

Mr. Nott, attendant at the hotel at Surrattsville, testified he never had a conversation with Edward Smooth on the 14th of April, in which he said John Surratt was one of the murderers or anything of the kind.

Mr. Reybold recalled and testified he had examined locks of boxes seven and eight of Ford's theatre. Box eight had been forced open, the wood was split. Box seven was also forced you could put the screws in and out of box eight. The keeper is forced aside.

Mr. Plant, dealer in furniture, testified to same purport, adding that in box four, directly opposite, the keeper is gone entirely. Should judge the keepers of boxes seven and eight were made loose by force from outside. The hole in the door of box seven looks in one part as if made by a knife, and in another as if made by a gimlet. Should think a gimlet was used, but it might have been made with a knife.

Ephraim Smooth testified that Jenkins, brother of Mrs. Surratt, was looked upon the first year of the war as a Union man after that as a secesh sympathizer. I had a conversation with Mr. Nott on Saturday preceding the murder. A young man connected with Gen. Augur's office told me Surratt was supposed to be the man who cut Seward, and I asked Nott if he could tell me where Surratt was. He said he thought he was in New York by that time. I asked him why that was, and he said "My God, John Surratt knows all about this, and do you suppose he is going to stay in Washington, and let them catch him. Could have told you this thing was going to happen six months ago. Then said he: keep that in your skin, for if you would mention it it would ruin me. I have heard him speak against the Government and denounce the administration in every manner and heard him say that if the South didn't succeed, he didn't want to live another day. This was exactly opposite the evidence of Mott.

Mr. Rogy testified that Jenkins was looked upon in 1861 as a Union man, and after that as a rebel sympathizer. He has talked against the Government since 1862. At the election in 1863, when we voted for the constitution, he said "He had been offered an office under the d——d Government, and would not hold office under such a G—d d——d Government as the Government of the United States."

The court adjourned till to-morrow morning.

During the recess hour Miss Anna Surratt entered the Court room and took a seat near her mother. She was dressed in deep mourning, and her eyes had the appearance of being heavy with grief. She occupied the same seat during the afternoon proceedings, it being just below the raised bench occupied by her mother. The powerful eyes of the mother were most constantly bent on her daughter, with a look of indescribable yearning.

A Washington correspondent says: It is believed here that the President is not in favor of negro suffrage, except in some modified form, and under certain qualifications. It is also understood that the mission of General Sickles to Bogota was for the purpose of obtaining grants of land for the purpose of settling them with blacks from the United States, and that the late President who authorized the mission was willing to give fifteen millions of dollars for adequate territory. The United States of Columbia, after this year, will withdraw their diplomatic establishment from the country, in consequence of the Congress having refused to make any appropriations beyond the present year.

The iron clads and monitors attached to the West Gulf and Mississippi squadrons, are to be laid up, now that the rebellion is finally over. These will not be brought North, but will be laid up at some convenient point on the Mississippi river, or one of its tributaries, not yet decided upon.

A Washington dispatch of the 2d says: The Sixth Corps has arrived from Richmond. They had a severe march, the roads being in a horrible condition. A number of the troops of this command are to be discharged from the service.

A Washington special says: The release of Governor Brown on parole greatly displeases the soldiers, as they hold him responsible for the horrors of Andersonville prison. The city is filling up with the political leaders of the rebellion, excepted in the Amnesty Proclamation. Many of them have frequent interviews with the President.

All rebel officers in prison in Washington have been sent to Johnson's Island.

The Raftsmen's Journal, of Clearfield county, says Mr. David Ferguson died on Wednesday the 19th of May, aged 79 years and nine months Mr. F. had been a resident of that county for a good many years, and was twice elected to the Pennsylvania Legislature, which position he filled with ability, and with credit to himself and constituents. He also was county surveyor for some years, and in that capacity he is well and favorably known to many citizens of the present day.

Nathaniel Purey has recovered $1,500 damages against the city of Troy, N. Y., for injuries received by being thrown out of a sleigh. In the spring of 1862, Mr. P. was riding up River street, and owing to the accumulation of snow alongside of the horse railroad track, the sleigh upset, his horse ran away and Mr. P.'s leg was broken.

The interior of Missouri is beginning to look up. Quite a number of farms near Boonville have recently changed hands at $60 to $70 per acre. A short time ago they would hardly have brought any price at all.

Lieut. James B. Clay

Is among the rebel prisoners who reported here yesterday.

Thomas Poverax,

A Noted Bushwhacker,

From Jackson County, Alabama, was brought to this Court yesterday for trial by court-martial.

Daring Bank Robbery.

One of the boldest robberies on record took place here to-day, at Ordway's banking establishment, on College street, near the First National Bank. Mr. Ordway was absent and Mr. Semple was in charge of the business of the house, went out for dinner, leaving an old gentleman named Lusk, bank teller in the office. Ten minutes after Semple had gone, two men came in. One remained at the door, the other jumped over the counter and knocked Mr. Lusk down, and stamped upon him until he was insensible; he then tried to break open the safe. Failing in this, he gathered up eight hundred dollars in gold upon the counter and fled with the other villian, Mr. Lusk being too badly injured to give alarm.

NEGROES RETURNING SOUTHWARD.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.

The Commercial's special says: There is much complaint at Halleck's management in Richmond. It is charged that rebels are creeping into power under his influence. These charges, together with others, explains his transfer to California.

A sharp inside contest is going on respecting the Assistant Treasurership of New York, though New York merchants wanted a business man, and Mr. McCulloch tendered Mr. Vermilyea the position. His decision, however, opened the case, and a recent combination of many Republican and Democratic leaders is working for Mr. Bladeford.

General Sherman in moving about the city, to-day, was beset by crowds of persons anxious to hear him speak, and shake hands with him. He would not speak, however, and hastily extricated himself from the crowd surrounding him, shaking hands with those he came in contact with. This evening he will receive his friends at the residence of his cousin, Mr. Scott, and to-morrow evening he will be the guest of the Union League.

There are now about three thousand rebel prisoners confined on Hart's Island, near this city. They have comfortable tents, and are furnished regular soldiers' rations, they are allowed to go to shore to fish and bathe. Visitors are not allowed on the island. Among them are many members of the Southern Church, and they hold prayer meetings regularly. Having seen the President's proclamation for a Fast Day, they proposed to observe it, and made arrangements accordingly. Their services were impressive and very interesting. The first prayer was for the President, of the United States. Nearly all the men in the hospital have taken the oath of allegiance.

The horses, carriage, and harness, declined as a present by President Johnson, were sold at auction to-day. The horses brought $1,600, and cost $3,000. The carriage brought $1,400, and cost $2,100. The harness brought $65, and cost $675. Another span of horses and carriage equal to above were sold for $1,600.

Newbern, North Carolina dates of the 30th state that the proposition to pay off the National debt meets with much favor, and many business men there will take a share in it.

Formerly wealthy citizens of Newbern are returning to meet with hospitable treatment from servants who not only relieve their wants, but furnish them money to pay their taxes. The slaves who followed our armies through the South are returning to their homes in great numbers, having experienced much suffering and satisfied there is "No place like home."

The Post's Washington special says: The trial of Jeff Davis in this city will take place before a full bench, consisting of Judge Olin, of New York, Judge Carter, of Ohio, and Judge Wylie, of Virginia.

The delegation from Alabama are receiving very little countenance here. The President will not consent for a call of the rebel legislature of that State.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE SEVEN-THIRTY LOAN.

The New Notes to be Issued Wednesday Next.

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.

The subscriptions to-day to the 7-30 Loan in all parts of the Union, amount to $1,513,850. The largest Western subscription was $100,000 from the First National Bank of Pittsburgh, and from the Fourth National Bank of St. Louis, $50,000. The largest Eastern subscription was $117,000 from the First National Bank of Philadelphia; The First National Bank of Portland, Me., $50,000; The Second National Bank, Boston, $50,000. The individual subscriptions were $1,659. First National Bank, Marietta, Ohio, $30,000.

On Wednesday next the issues of the new notes of the third series of the seven-thirty loan, of all denominations, will be ready for delivery to subscribers. They will be delivered after that day with the same promptitude that marked the supply of the notes of the first and second series. It has been this interruption of the delivery at the time of subscription which has given the appearance of a falling off in the popular taking of the loan, the great body of small takers being unwilling to pay their money unless they receive the notes right in hand to carry home. It is expected that after next week the daily subscriptions to the 7-30's will run up again into the millions. The opening of the farmers' wool markets throughout the North and West will also probably give a large stimulus to the popular takings.

Affairs in the Interior of Georgia—Reconstruction of the Railroads—Planting going On.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.

The steamer Port au Prince brings Savannah dates of the 29th. The Savannah Herald has the following from the interior of Georgia: The Macon papers are discussing railroad affairs, referring to the sad condition of the roads and the urgent necessity for immediate reconstruction and repair.

The Macon Telegraph says: General Thomas' orders for the restoration of civil law is liberal and conciliatory, and it knows they will be met with a corresponding spirit by the people. They will tend to dissipate the gloomy apprehension that the Federal authority is to be exercised in a vigorous and oppressive manner. The Telegraph is pleased at the prosperity in Savannah and the Union rule there. Marietta is rapidly recovering from her desolation. Regular mail communication has been reestablished through the place and planting is going on with energy. The season promises well.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

By order of Gen. Logan, all

Unemployed Negroes

And such as are not actually needed with the army of Tennessee, are to be turned over immediately to Gen. D. H. Rucker, Chief Quartermaster of the Department of Washington.

The Following Regiments

Are to be mustered out entire, although a prior order released some of the companies before the rest, viz: 29th Missouri, 90th and 83d Indiana, 127th and 90th Illinois infantry.

Captain A. M. Vandyke,

Adjutant General of the Army of Tennessee, leaves to-night to establish General Logan's headquarters in Louisville. All officers and troops absent in the West are ordered to report at Louisville, instead of Washington. General Logan leaves for New York Monday morning.

A Judge Acquitted.

A. A. Atchat, formerly Judge of the Provost Court, at New Orleans, tried on charge of embezzling funds, has been acquitted.

Artillerists to be Mustered Out.

The Secretary of War has directed General Meade to have immediately mustered out and discharged all the artillery in his command, and that the troops be placed en-route with the least practicable delay, and forwarded to their respective rendezvous in their States at or nearest to which they were mustered in.

Benjamin G. Harris,

Representative in Congress from Southern Maryland, who was tried here a few weeks ago before a special court martial, upon the charge of violating the 56th article of war, in harboring two paroled soldiers of Lee's army, and urging them to violate their oath by returning South and again taking up arms, has been released from the Old Capitol Prison. It is understood that the court martial which tried him, found him guilty, sentenced him to three years imprisonment and forever disqualified him from holding any office under the United States Government. But upon evidence brought to light since the trial and sworn to in affidavits, President Johnson remitted the sentence and ordered Harris to be released.

The Sixth Corps.

The last division of the Sixth Corps arrived at Alexandria to-day from Richmond.

Dishonest Tax Commissioner.

There are four indictments in the Criminal Court here against Lemon D. Stickney, Tax Commissioner for the Southern District of Florida, for fraudulent practices.

The Rebel Governor Brown

Had a lengthy interview to-day with the President in relation to reconstruction. It is understood that he has been unconditionally released from arrest.

By orders of the War Department, the Adjutant General will

Open Recruiting Stations

All over the country, in order to recruit the ranks of the regular regiments. Volunteers, honorably discharged, who enlist in the regular service within ten days from date of discharge, will be allowed a furlough of thirty days before joining regiments. Volunteers enlisting will be paid all dues and allowances in arrears before joining the commands.

The above order was promulgated today in a special order by General Logan to the Army of the Tennessee.

The reports in regard to the movement West of Sherman's army have been so conflicting, that a correct statement of facts is of interest. All of the 15th Corps but two brigades, have gone. The other corps of the Army of Tennessee, the 17th, will follow. The Army of Georgia, Gen. Slocum commanding, will not leave until the rolls are prepared and the veterans mustered out, when the veterans will follow the Army of Tennessee. The 17th Corps will commence moving West on Tuesday next. The cause of delay is the lack of sufficient railroad transportation to move such large bodies of troops.

General Thomas

Has as yet received no orders assigning him to the command of the District of Virginia, although no doubt exists of his ultimate assignment. He was closeted with the President for several hours to-day.

The 14th Corps

Of the old Army of Georgia, formerly of the old Army of the Cumberland, will be ordered to report to Gen. Logan, at Louisville.

Gen. Grant will leave

Here next week to attend the annual examination at West Point. From thence he will go to Chicago to attend the Great Fair.

A Premature Announcement

Was made of the arrival of Jeff. Davis here. He was taken from Fortress Monroe on board the monitor Sangus, which got aground about twenty miles below the city. He was then transferred to the torpedo boat Chico, and brought up. Quarters have been prepared for him at the Old Capitol.

Dr. Mackey,

The distinguished Free Mason, who rendered so much aid to our suffering prisoners at Charleston, arrived here to-day, and was the recipient of marked attention from the Masonic fraternity.

President Johnson was Serenaded

By the band of the Second Brigade, Fourth Division, Fifteenth Corps to-night. He acknowledged the compliment by appearing at the window of the Executive Mansion, in plebeian style, viz: in his shirt sleeves.

Major General George H. Thomas

Was also serenaded this eve at his hotel by the Illinois band of his old Division, the Third, Fourteenth Corps. In response to the compliment the old war horse made his appearance and excused himself from making a speech, which he said was not in his line. After congratulating the armies of Tennessee and Georgia on their successful march through the enemy's country, he retired amidst a burst of applause.

Major General Logan

Was likewise the recipient of a serenade by the troops of the 15th corps. He acknowledged the compliment in a short speech, in which he thanked the soldiers for the compliment, and congratulated them on their early return home.

Business Prospects in Virginia.

Special to Western Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.

The Herald's Washington special says: Secretary McCulloch, in conversation with a prominent politician a few days since, stated that the Government was now ready to resume specie payment; that its finances were in a condition to enable it to adopt that course. The only thing that prevented the immediate adoption of that plan was the injury it would do the business interests of the country. The indications are that a return to specie payments would be made before many months.

It is understood that the President has decided to appoint James Q. Smith, of Selma, Ala., United States District Attorney for that State. Mr. Smith was arrested for his devotion to the Union cause, but made his escape, and has resided for the past two years in Nashville.

It is rumored that Montgomery Blair will be given an important foreign appointment.

The Tribune's special says: "The Paymaster General has disbursed $3,000,000 to the officers of Sherman's army since its arrival here, and will pay out as much more during the next week.

The Herald has a letter from Greensboro, North Carolina, dated 21st ult., from a correspondent, who passed by rail from Petersburg, to that point. He describes the railroads in very bad condition. Nearly all the cars and engines are out of repair. Rebel railway officials say if the war had lasted six months longer the roads would have been almost entirely useless. The road from Danville to Greensboro, built during the war, runs up and down fields, with grade according to the face of the country.

The country is stripped of provisions and is destitute of money. Large quantities of wheat were shown last autumn, but the winter frosts killed nearly all of it. The wheat harvest will be a very small one, and the quantity of corn raised will not be sufficient for the wants of the people. About half the negroes are working in the fields; the balance are enjoying freedom, but are likely to return to labor before long. Large numbers of paroled soldiers from Lee's army are wandering through the country, plundering the inhabitants.

The day has been very generally observed here. A prominent feature of the day was that negroes were allowed to ride in passenger railway cars. Restrictions on Exportation of Coal Removed.

The Pardon of Congressman Harris, of Maryland.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

The following official notice was received to-day:

"DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, June 1.

"WHEREAS, Pursuant to the order of the President, for the purpose insuring the public safety, directions were issued from this Department under date of the 17th December, 1864, requiring passports from all travellers entering into the United States, except emigrant passengers, directly entering an American port, and from a foreign country; and whereas, the necessities which required the adoption of the measure are believed no longer to exist; now, therefore, The President directs that from and after this date the above order referred to shall be rescinded. Nothing in this regulation, however, will be construed to relieve from duty or responsibility any enemies of the United States or offenders against their peace and dignity, who may hereafter seek to enter the country, and at any time found within the jurisdiction.

Governor Brown has been released from prison on his parole.

Secretary McCulloch has just addressed the following circular to the collectors of customs: All restrictions heretofore placed by the Treasury Department on the exportation of anthracite coal are hereby removed.

It is already known that the military court which tried Representative Harris, of Maryland, for giving comfort to rebel soldiers, sentenced him to three years imprisonment and disqualification from holding office. Since the adjournment of the Court, affidavits bearing on the case, and favorable to the accused were considered by the President, and there is every reason why the sentence is remitted and Mr. Harris released from confinement.

During the month of May, requisitions to the amount of ninety-seven million of dollars were made on the Treasury for the payment of the armies.

GEN. WEITZEL'S EXPEDITION.

Its Destination Mobile—List of Vessels in the Fleet.

FORTRESS MONROE, June 2.

The expedition under command of General Weitzel, which has been fitting out in this harbor during the past week, is fairly on the way to its point of destination, somewhere along the coast of that State. Preparatory to its sailing orders were issued to the commanding officer on board the vessel to proceed to Mobile Bay or the vicinity of Forts Morgan and Gaines, with the view of making a rendezvous in that harbor, and to thoroughly clean them before proceeding any further southward. The steamers comprising the expedition are among the largest and best description of any known in the mercantile service, and were chartered by Quartermasters especially for the purpose. The major portion of the fleet, containing some fifteen of the largest steamers have already sailed while remainder, comprising the steamers Star of the South, Richmond, Western Metropolis, Towanda, C. C. Petty, J. B. Averman, Aurora, Barber, Camoria, and Tillie, are now lying in the Road, and will sail either this evening or to-morrow. Everything seems auspicious for the safety and success of the expedition. The steamers with the troops are to reach the point of rendezvous is about seven days' sail. The weather has been fair, with every prospect of continuing so.

CITY MATTERS.

THE RECENT HOMICIDE AT SAW MILL RUN.—Yesterday morning the jury empannelled on Wednesday by Acting Coroner Donaldson, to inquire into the facts connected with the death of George Bond, reassembled at Branchville. Thomas Critchley testified that he visited Pittsburgh on Tuesday afternoon in company with deceased. About eleven o'clock they reached the scene of the murder, when a dog barked and Bond said "get out." Turley, who was near by, went up to Bond, and inquired who he said to "get out." Bond replied "not to you." Whereupon Turley knocked him down and stabbed him. Turley did not speak after he was cut. The witness understood that a difficulty had occurred between Bond and Turley on last pay day. Other witnesses were examined, but their evidence was not important. Dr. Jos. W. Smith who held a post mortem examination on the body on Wednesday, gave a minute description of the wound. He stated that the wound was such as to prove fatal in a few minutes and was undoubtedly the direct cause of Bond's death. The jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death from a wound inflicted by a knife in the hands of Michael Turley. The jury further found that Turley was aided and abetted by Daniel O'Hara, and that John McGorgan was accessory to his escape. Turley has not yet been arrested, and it is the opinion of several of the police that he did not leave on the cars as before stated, but is concealed in a coal pit. It is said that he had no money, hence he could hardly have fled in the manner indicated.

THE NATIONAL FAST DAY.—Thursday, the day appointed by President Johnson for humiliation and prayer throughout the land, was generally observed in this city. All the stores and business houses were closed, and remained closed throughout the day. Divine service was held in the churches, and the attendance was unusually large. In the evening, Hon. Thos. Williams delivered a eulogy on the life and services of Abraham Lincoln, in Christ M. E. Church, Penn street. The house was crowded, and hundreds were unable to obtain even standing room. The exercises of the evening were opened with a duet and chorus, "Bow Down Thine Ear," by Righini, sung by Miss Cora Brown and Master Blumernschein, after which Mr. H. Kleber sang a solo, "Vital Spark," words adopted to an air from the Oratoria of "Joseph and his Brethren." Rev. Mr. Jones, pastor of the church, then led in prayer, after which Mr. Williams was introduced to the audience, and proceeded to read his oration, which was without doubt one of his finest efforts, and consumed two hours in its delivery. At the conclusion of the oration, the "Star Spangled Banner" was rendered in excellent style by the choir. when the benediction was pronounced by Mr. Jones, and the congregation dispersed.

NEW OPERA HOUSE.—Mr. George Wilson, the well-known theatrical builder and designer, has been engaged by Mr. Gardiner, to transform Concert Hall into a beautiful dramatic temple. He is now in the city and has taken the work in hand, so that our citizens may soon expect to have a place of amusement second to none in the West. The filthy character and bad ventilation of our places of amusement has been a great source of complaint on the part of the people generally, and the new opera house will be an exception in this respect. Mr. Gardner, who is a gentleman of energy and taste, will spare no means in the decoration, ornamentation and arranging of the entire house, all of which will be of the most elegant description. Mr. Wilson, the builder and designer of the new house, built the Winter Garden Theatre, New York, for Boucicault; recently improved the Boston Theatre, and has just concluded the alterations and decoration of Niblo's Garden, New York.

NOTICE.
SALE OF ARMY MULES.
QUARTERMASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23, 1865.
Many thousands of Mules are being disposed of at Washington.
The sales will continue until the number of animals is reduced in proportion to the reduction of the armies, now going on rapidly.
There are in the Armies of the Potomac, of the Tennessee, and of Georgia, probably Four Thousand of the finest six-mule teams in the world.
Many of them were bought in the beginning of the war, as young mules, accompanied the armies in all their marches and camps, and are thoroughly broken, hardened by exercise, gentle and familiar, from being so long surrounded by the soldiers.
The whole South is stripped of farming stock, and the North also has suffered from the drain of animals, taken to supply the armies.
These animals are sold at public auction: They will not bring anything like their true value; and such opportunities for farmers to get working animals to stock their farms, and for drovers and dealers in stock to make good speculations, by purchasing them and disposing of them in the south, will never occur again.
M. C. MEIGS,
Quartermaster General, Brevet Major General.

The Surrender in Texas.

The only wise thing that has loomed up above the horizon, in the direction of that distant State, for four years past, is the surrender of its military forces to the authority of the United States. When, after the surrender of all the armed rebels east of the Mississippi, the civil and military powers of Texas signified a purpose to continue the contest on their own hook, they appeared more fit to be laughed at than to be fought.

That State had by the bisection of the Grand Confederacy two years ago, been virtually put out of the ring. It has been, for the most part, let alone by the Government, since that time, being regarded as hors du combat. It has not been much drained or damaged by the war. It has, in fact, been profited by it, having an inland trade, in a legitimate or in a contraband way, that has turned greatly to its profit. While the other rebel States have been pinched by the blockade, Texas has been driving the cotton business in Mexico, and getting grand prices for her commodities.

Now, when she proposed to shoulder the broken down Rebellion, and to invite the veteran and victorious Union army into her borders, she looked so much more the fool, than either the knave or the knight, that a feeling of commisseration took the precedence of anger, in every thinking mind. That less than six hundred thousand rebels should undertake to do what over six millions had ruined themselves in attempting, appeared like chivalry indeed, but it was chivalry of the most genuine Quixotic order.

Better counsels, succeeding to this madness, saved that State from the doom it had first sought. The olive branch has been chosen instead of the sword. The advent of peace is at hand, and with it the inauguration of a prosperous history.

Want to Stay in the Union.

Indignant rebels used to say, and some of them, we fear, to swear, that they would never live under the government or in the boundaries of the United States. They now appear to be of a different mind. They not only are disposed to live in the United States, but many of them seem to prefer the once hated Yankee part of the country. Large numbers, we hear, are already moving northward, and seeking houses and employment in the loyal States. These are probably pursuing a wise course. The negroes who, according to the gloomy vaticinations of some, were to pour over the North like flights of ravens, are content to remain in the sunny South. Freedom, without migration, satisfies them.

We are not surprised, nor sorry, at the Northern proclivities of our Southern people. Their advantage will be promoted, we hope, by a closer view of the old free States, and by a better acquaintance with their people. Good will also result to the country from the mixing up and assimilation of its citizens. Northern men are, with their families, looking toward the summer climes of the South, as their future homes. The character of our people will become more unique, by the interchanges that will occur. The Union will be strengtheend by it; sectional jealousies will die out; antipathies will coalesce into friendship; new relations will be formed; unity will be perpetuated.

We hope the people who come North or go South, will bear along with them enough good sense and virtue, to conduct themselves with propriety; to ease off as far as practicable, the embarrassments growing out of the recent hostility, and to live sober, reightous and godly lives, in their new homes.

The Fast Day

The day of humiliation appointed by the President was observed in the cities and country more generally and strictly than is common with public appointments. The churches were all open and attended by large numbers of people. The places of business were universally closed, and the streets presented the usual appearance of the holy Sabbath silence and quietness. The religious services were of a highly appropriate character.

The occasion was one which awakened the liveliest emotions in the heart of the nation. The tears of the people flowed afresh, in sorrow, for the death of the man whom they delighted to honor. Besides, there was on this occasion a stirring sense of gratitude for his successful agency in closing the war and restoring peace to the country. There was also a consciousness of consistency in the national humiliation, as connected with the emancipation of the bondmen whose wrongs have, heretofore, been a blot upon the national virtue. Now, for the first time, could it be said, in the day of our humiliation, the wicked bands are loosed, the heavy burden is removed, the oppressed have gone free and every yoke is broken. And now, prophesy and promise and providence encourage the hope that the nation's light shall, with new effulgence, break forth as the morning, and that its health shall spring forth speedily.

It is gratifying to notice that, everywhere, the people's sorrow for the dead is accompanied by high esteem for the living President; and that prayers ascend to heaven for his safety, preservation and guidance in the important office which has devolved upon him.

THE NATIONAL TREASURY.—A statement of the public debt, it is understood, is being prepared for publication. There are, and have been for some time, no unpaid requisitions in the Treasury, except uncalled for pay of the army. Every demand of the Paymaster General is promptly met, sufficient funds having already been placed to the credit of the Paymasters to meet all back dues and bounties accruing to the armies about to be disbanded.

DR. BLACKBURN.—This pestilence pedlar, we learn from a Canada paper, "has become a Catholic and received baptism the day before yesterday," (May 23d,) "at the St. Lawrence Hotel." The Rev. Mr. Cameron, designated as "the special messenger of the raiders to Richmond," it is added, "joined the Roman Catholic Church in Quebec," a few days since.

Alfred L. Smith, formerly of St. Albans, and a son of the Rev. Dr. Smith, former President of the University of Vermont, is to be city editor of the Chicago Republican.

Dissolution of the Assembly.

The sessions of this venerable body have closed. After a meeting that extended through two weeks, the ordinary business was concluded on Wednesday evening. On Thursday, the National Fast Day, the members who remained in the city officiated or joined in the public observance of the solemn occasion, in the different churches of the vicinity.

In the afternoon the Assembly held its final session, which was occupied with religious exercises, together with the reading of the Narrative of the State of Religion, and the Pastoral Letter to the churches. These interesting documents will be published as part of the proceedings of the body. The Assembly was then formally dissolved; the Moderator closing it in the usual manner.

As our columns have furnished to the public full reports of the business transacted by this Assembly from its beginning, we need not recapitulate the various items. We trust that our report has been satisfactory to our readers as it was to the Assembly itself.

The meeting has been a pleasant one, we understand, to the strangers from different and distant parts of the country, who composed it, and to the citizens who availed themselves of the opportunity of attending on its deliberations, and the hospitality of the cities and the neighborhood, with all the courtesises that are embraced in it, we are assured, was not more satisfactorily enjoyed than it was liberally tendered.

TROUBLE AMONG COAL MINERS.—There has been a great exitement among the coal-diggers around Pottsville, where they constitute a numerous element of the population. The trouble arose from a proposition of the employers to give six dollars a day, instead of seven, as the rate of wages. Many people would think six dollars a snug earning for a short day's work. By the fall in the price of coal in the principal markets—a decline incident to the change of times—the employers and dealers judged that they could not afford to pay the old price for mining. Hence the trouble ensued, and the conduct of the miners was so menacing to the peace of the neighborhood, that a military force was despatched to the place to maintain order.

This local affair involves principles which are important, as connected with the interests of people in all localities. The subject is worthy of more consideration than it has received. These combinations of men, acting in concert, and sometimes acting with violence are against the rights and interests of individuals, and in contravention of all just principles of free government. They are not confined to coal miners. In any kind of labor and in any trade, combinations may be made either to elevate or depress the price of wages or commodities, and individuals have no means of withstanding them. But it is the province of law to protect individuals in their personal, social and pecuniary rights. Combinations, such as are referred to, contravene the provisions of law, and make victims of individuals, acting each one by himself, although their numbers may be ten fold or a hundred fold greater than those embraced in the associations.

The legitimate competitions of trade and the tendency to equipose between the supply and the demand are ordinarily and justly expected to adjust the prices of labor and commodities. In this method, individuals have an equally fair chance. But this safe order is disturbed, when combinations are formed to fix and control prices by arbitrary arrangements. It appears, on general principles, to bear the character of conspiracy. Nor does it matter, as to its essential character or its injurious effects, whether it be an open or a secret league, a formal or a tacit concert of action.

We should be glad to learn that the disturbance of the public peace and the detriment of individual interests were thoroughly prevented by the just administration of the laws, and that the price of labor, of merchandize and marketing, of all sorts, were left to the legitimate adjustment of laws of trade. But these are contravened, and the statutes that are designed for individual protection are nullified by the conventional and class arrangements to which we refer.

LENIENCY FOR JEFF. DAVIS.—It is reported that petitions are in circulation in some of the townships of Indiana County, Pennsylvania, obtaining signatures, praying that JEFF. DAVIS may be leniently dealt with. Although it is not stated as a fact, it is probably true. The members of the different secret orders opposed to the Administration and the Government will undoubtedly attempt the rescue of JEFF by their petitions and prayers, and why not the members of the "Democratic Castle," of Pennsylvania.

CHIEF JUSTICE CHASE and party were at Fernandina on the 18th ult. They visited the colored school for children. Chase spoke a few words to the pupils saying that he was their friend, and that the time had come in this country when all men were going to be friends of other men. The rebellion was over. There would no longer be any such thing as a slave. He exhorted the children to be attentive, obedient to their teachers, to do right, and they would then insure the blessing of God and the bliss of Heaven.

His Honor, the Chief Justice, having been informed that Mr. Adolph Mot had been duly elected mayor of the city by ballots of both white and colored citizens but had not yet been sworn into office, signified his willingness to administer the oath, which was accordingly done in the presence of Major General Gillmore and the several military officers of the post. "Gentlemen," said Mr. Chase, "I am about to administer the oath of office to the first Mayor of a city elected by white and colored voters in the State of Florida."

This will be the first city government organized in the South which secures to the colored man the full right of citizenship. The interest manifested by the colored people in the result of the election was great. They were punctually at the polls, dressed in their Sunday attire, and appeared to realize the full importance of the steps they were taking.

A DISTINCTION WITH A DIFFERENCE.—A Democratic paper comforting itself with the remark that "Democrats and Republicans lie side by side on every Southern battle field," is answered with: "True, the former generally shrouded in Confederate grey; the latter always in Union blue.

Amos Kendall, who, in his old age, has amassed a fortune by investing in telegraphic stocks, has devoted the sum of $50,000 to the erection of a paptist church in Washington City as a memorial to his deceased wife, who was a member of that denomination. Mr. Kendall retired from Gen. Jackson's Administration poor, but now, at the age of 80, enjoys an income of $40,000 a year.

Gen. R. Delevan Mussey, one of the private Secretaries of President Johnson, was formerly a reporter for the Boston Courier. He is a son of the well known Surgeon, Dr. R. D. Mussey, now of this city, but recently residing at the West. Gen. M. is a graduate of Dartmouth College, is a man of considerable ability, and if our memory is right, is somewhat eccentric.

The New York Daily News last Tuesday rather ostentatiously proclaimed the presence of the notorious John Mitchell in the city, and that if any body wanted him, he could be found during office hours at that establishment. An officer from General Dix, of New York, a correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger writes has availed himself of the invitation to give John a call, and to notify him that he is wanted by Uncle Sam.

There is a great increase of live stock in Michigan. This year the increase of cows, as compared with 1860, amounts to 30,190; the increase of sheep amounts to the enormous figures of 1,555,589, and the increase in horses to 9,000.

As the audience were retiring from St. John's Catholic Church, East Albany, at the close of a funeral service, last Sunday afternoon, a portion of the flooring, fourteen feet square, gave way near the door, precipitating those upon it into the coal cellar below, and injuring nearly thirty persons, some of them very seriously.

The "Street School" is an awful one to educate youth in, but it is one well patronized in this city. Its night sessions are well attended. Parents evidently entertain the opinion that the question of their children going to the devil is only one of time, so they send them into the street to hurry the matter up.

There are 7,000 square miles of coal in Michigan. There are two mines in Blackman Jackson county, yielding 24,689,143 pounds for the year ending May, 1864, and one in mine Caledonia, Shiawasse county, producing in the same period, 2,400,000 pounds, making an aggregate of 27,079,143 pounds, or 338,614 bushels, of eighty pounds to the bushel. In 1854 there were but eight persons employed in Michigan coal mining—now there are seventy; then the annual product was but 120,000 pounds or 15,000 bushels. Now they mine more than 225 bushels where they then mined but one bushel.

Of peppermint oil, Michigan manufactured 24,623lbs, being an increase of 128.4 per cent. in ten years.

A nice relic of the "peculiar institution" is found on one of the confiscated plantations on on the Mississippi, a notorious hard master, named Cockrel, who left behind, in the house, a journal of events, orders, &c., in which he expressly prohibits all meetings for prayers and religious services. Cockrel, in the journal mentioned above, chronicles an instruction issued to his overseer one season, that the plantation must produce so much corn, such a quantity of cotton, a certain number of mules, a certain number of hogs, and ten negro children, and directs arrangements be made accordingly, without regard to any of the relations of life.

Some of the rich Bostonians know how to take a hint. One of them returned his income for 1864 to the United States assessor at $80,000. The assessor knew very well that this was immensely below the real figure and a few days after informed him significantly that if he wished to rectify any of the statements in his return he could then have an opportunity to do so. He blustered considerably and with much show of indignation asked what he meant. The assessor blandly told him what he said—nothing else. The rich man reflected a little and at length found a few items to rectify which made his income $100,000 more.

There was a grand demonstration in Memphis on Wednesday a week. There was a procession led by two hundred and fifty negro soldiers, then two hundred and fifty negro "citizens," then a banner inscribed: "Liberty Education and the Right of Suffrage." Then came about one hundred little boys, next one hundred little girls, then one hundred and fifty girls of larger dimensions. After these came invited guests in carriages, then again the tail of the procession, which was made up of odds and ends. The Stars and Stripes were displayed, and a banner bearing the following motto: "The General Superintendent of Freedmen!" "Our Rights Protected!" "Willing to Work!" "Liberty Two Years Old!" The procession marched to the woods, where speeches were made.

The recent cold weather seems not to have affected early planted corn in Iowa, which is even now checkering the vast, broad acres of the prairie into green quadrants. Fruit promises well, while the smaller garden fruits never looked as invitingly.

A farmer near Blairsville, Pa., last week employed a young man to work in his tobacco house making cigars. The family being absent a short time, he stole two gold watches and three hundred dollars. He was arrested on Monday week, and while on the way to Greensburg he drew a pistol on the officer, who threw up his arm and received the contents in his arm, breaking the bone. He then succeeded in escaping.

The United States Marshal has sold the Fashion plantation, belonging to General Richard Taylor, son of Gen. Zach. Taylor, confiscated to the United States, situated on the right bank of the Mississippi river, twenty-seven miles above New Orleans, with all the improvements sugar house, mill, engines, dwellings, &c., the land in all comprising about twenty-five hundred acres, for $9,000. Terms, half cash, balance in twelve months.

A letter from Toombs, dated March 24th, 1865, has just come to light. He wrote in a despondent tone, and was very severe on Jeff. Davis. He closed by saying, "We must fight the fight to the bitter end, and we can win it; if we can get rid of Jeff.; if not, not."

The Des Moines Register says it is a gratifying fact that out of seventy thousand soldiers that have gone to the front from Iowa, only one has been dishonorably dismissed from the service. The exception is J. B. Atherton, formerly Major of the 22d Infantry, who was found guilty of deception and cowardice.

An ingenious contrivance has been invented to prevent robberies from iron safes or other depositories of property. It consists of an electrical apparatus, which by the ordinary system of telegraphic street wires can be placed in communication with the nearest police station, and on the slightest attempt on any part of the safe will sound an alarm, and not only inform the police of the robbery, but acquaint them with the precise safe and locality that are being attacked.

Reconstruction.

In the congressional discussions which preceded and attended the withdrawal of the representatives of the states claiming to have seceded, Mr. Andrew Johnson, then a Senator from Tennessee, and now President of the United States, was, perhaps, the only man who took a practical view of the powers of the general government in case of a rebellion. While Senators from all sections discussed pro and con the abstract question of the power of the United States to "coerce a state" and while the existence and necessity of such power was insisted upon on the one side and denied upon the other, with all the vehemence and positiveness that the exciting condition of affairs could produce, ANDREW JOHNSON, with that practical good sense for which he has always been remarkable, took the bull by the horns, and frankly declared that there was no power to coerce a state; and a state could do no treasonable act; and the State could do no act in its governmental capacity that could possibly justify or authorise any citizen of the United States or any inhabitant, to oppose, resist or nullify any law of the United States, or interfere with, or obstruct, or defeat its execution. Each and every man who violated any law of the United States was individually amenable for his offense, whether he did so in obedience to any pretended State authority or not, and the authority and power of the United States being complete over all the people within its borders, no such necessity as an effort to coerce a State could ever arise, and was never contemplated or intended. To recognize the necessity of coercing a State, was to recognize that the people of that State, were not personally responsible for their acts, and could not be arrested or punished individually for their crimes. He repudiated State authority to commit crime, and declared that the United States had the fullest power to pursue and punish every individual who might do any act in violation of the laws of the land.

The result of the war has proven the soundness of Mr. Johnson's theory. Mr. Lincoln never sought to coerce a State. He ignored necessarily any such thing as a rebellion by States. He made war upon individuals who resisted the laws, and were engaged in acts of violence against the National authority. He paid no more respect to Governor Letcher or Governor Harris than he did to any other rebels. He repudiated their assumption of executive authority to commit treason, and held them personally liable for their acts. He conducted the war, in that particular, upon the only rational and legal basis that was possible. Had he recognized the capacity of a State to commit treason, he would have absolved from the crime every individual who might plead the orders of his State government. It would have been giving a legal charter to rebellion under which every man in the rebel States would have justified his treason by the high sounding term of allegiance and obedience to his State.

Mr. Lincoln, as soon as he had to deal practically with the rebellion, was necessarily compelled to throw aside all consideration of the question of coercing States, and apply himself, as Andrew Johnson had predicted, to the practical suppression of an insurrection by disorderly and rebellious persons. Mr. Johnson upon entering the Presidential office, finds the insurrection suppressed, and all armed resistance to the authority of the government silenced. Having ignored the authority which assumed to govern the rebel States during the war, because the authority assumed to be superior to and above the authority of the United States, he cannot permit the individuals who thus seized the State governments and perverted them to treasonable ends, to exercise any longer any powers of civil government whatever. All powers in those States has reverted to the people; and the only people whom he can recognize as entitled to political rights are those who have heretofore, or do now profess an allegiance to, and avow a purpose to assist in upholding and maintaining the national constitution and the national laws. By this number of loyal persons great or small in these States they must be recognized by the Federal Government as constituting for the time being the several States. The preexisting State governments having been abandoned by those chosen to administer them, the people will have to institute new ones; when these are instituted the President will recognize them as the legitimate State governments; if they be fairly and honestly formed, representing beyond all doubt the honest sentiments of a majority of the loyal and faithful people, then the President will not inquire how nor in what manner they have arranged any purely local question, particularly if the constitution of the United States shall declare that such question shall be left to the exclusive control of the people of the several states. Having secured to the loyal people of these states the sole right to dictate the laws to govern their contumacious and refractory rebel neighbors and fellow citizens, the President will hardly tell these loyal men that they must do this or that thing respecting some purely local affair, just as the citizens of some other state or States may advise and demand; nor will he delay the work of reconstruction for any such purpose.

Mr. Johnson is an eminently practical man. Slavery is abolished; the negroes are free; these two great decisions have been placed beyond the interference or reversal of the people, loyal or disloyal, of any of the States. It will be the care of the Administration, that under no pretext will any state be permitted to trifle with either of these great facts, and to see that they are accepted as the law of the land by all States and all individuals; and this being done satisfactorily, the President will hardly think it any part of his province to dictate to the loyal men, and even to the people just emancipated, the full particulars and details of their laws respecting matters exclusively pertaining to their own interests, and not affecting, however remotely, the great question of reconstructed loyal State Governments in the States lately enrolled by Jeff. Davis as constituting his Confederacy.

The practical question at the present time is that of getting the machinery of the State Governments in operation, so as to resume the local administration of affairs and establish a unity of action between the National and the State Governments. That done, the work of reconstruction will be completed. That done, the functions of the general Government, as administrator of the internal affairs of the State, will be over. That done, then the loyal men of North Carolina and Georgia, be they small or great in point of numbers, will be masters of the situation as regards their rebel neighbors. They will have the making of all the laws, the filling of all the offices, and the working of the whole machinery of their local governments. If they are fit to be trusted with the important duties of organizing a state government at all, why are they not to be trusted with all the duties which are exercised by the loyal men of Ohio, Illinois and New York? We understand that Mr. Johnson, so far as the national executive is concerned, will insist that no persons but loyal men will be allowed to erect a government in any of these States whose original governments have been deposed; that these loyal men must recognize that slavery is abolished, and that the negroes are free; that when these conditions have been complied with, and the government formally approved by the majority of the loyal people of the State, that he will then recognize it as a State Government, and will give to it such military aid as will protect it from the machinations of the disloyal and insubordinate people residing in such State. Beyond this he will not go. We think, and the great majority of the people, we have no doubt, will think that in this particular the President will act with his usual good sense.

Each house of Congress has the power, under the Constitution, of deciding upon the qualifications and elections of its own members. The Senate at its last session, by the united vote of those who think that negro suffrage is a vital part of any scheme of reconstruction, and of the ultra Democrats who are most intensely opposed to negro suffrage, refused to admit the Senators elected by the Legislature of the new State Government in Louisiana. This refusal was not because of any objection, to the mode of organizing that Government but because negroes had not been admitted to the right of suffrage.

The Senate and the House next year may or may not admit the representatives of any of these States unless and until they confer the right of suffrage on the negro. In so doing each House of Congress will be exercising a power clearly conferred upon them by the constitution. It will be a trial of strength between Congress and the States, which, no matter how prolonged, will not interfere with the State governments, which, under the fostering recognition of the Executive, will still be in operation.

There is, or ought to be, no possible objection to negro suffrage in the Southern States by any person at the North. It is a matter purely affecting and belonging to the people of each of these States. The President thinks it may wisely be left to them to settle, and so we think will say the whole people of the North who desire to see the Union speedily reconstructed, and the thirty-six States once more acting through thirty six loyal Governments, vieing in acts of patriotism and devotion to the whole Union, now blessed with universal peace and universal freedom.

ANOTHER CASE OF FRAUD ON THE REVENUE.—A number of tobacco establishments in Chicago are in the hands of the Government on a charge of defrauding the revenue. The business of these establishments seems to have been represented by one heavy tobacco firm, which, it is charged had two sets of books. By one they were wont to pay the Government dues, and the other and real one was only brought to light when it became necessary to report their damages and claims upon their insurers in a recent disastrous fire. In short they sought to settle with the Government from one book, and with their underwriters from another. This is the case which more from inadvertence than intent, received the caption in a recent issue of "Non-paying Insurance Companies." The underwriters comprising some of the best companies, are non-paying, because they stand beside the Government in the investigation of what is claimed to be a most extraordinary instance of fraud attempted on both, but in such opposite directions as to have proved fatal to the whole scheme of the guilty parties. This latter case has already occupied official attention for several weeks.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—A case of considerable interest to business men was decided in New York, Thursday week. A person named Peyser, a former well known merchant of New York, having transferred his business with debts and credits to a successor named Kenter wrote to the plaintiffs in this case as well as others, stating the facts of the transfer, thanking them for the confidence heretofore reposed in him, and requesting that they would extend the same courtesies to his successor. Plaintiff sold goods to Kenter for two years, when he failed owing them a considerable amount. The plaintiff brought suit against Peyser for the balance due them, and the jury, under instructions from the court, gave a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for the full amount claimed, simply on account of Peyser's recommendation.

CHERRIES.—There are fears entertained that the cherry trees in the vicinity of Cincinnati, although blossoming profusely, have been severely damaged by the continued cold weather of the early spring. Not one blossom in forty has left a cherry formation. Apples, pears, plumbs and peaches have not suffered so much injury.

Foreign Items.

The Manufactory of St. Gobaine, Aisne, France, has been employed six years in fabricating a lens two feet in thickness, which it has now given as a present to the Observatory of Paris, for the large telescope in course of manufacture, the power of which will exceed that of any instrument known.

By command of the Queen, a State ball was given on the evening of the 16th, at Buckingham Palace, to which a party of upwards of 1,700 was invited. Her Royal Highness, the Princess of Wales, wore a rich dress of black and white tulle over black glace silk. Head-dress of black velvet and diamonds. The Victoria and Albert Order, and the Order of Isabella of Portugal.

Another mammoth Land Company is forming in London, with the object of attracting emigrants to Canada. The trouble with Canada is, that her best lands are already monopolized by huge corporations, so that the Government holds out poor inducements to settlers, compared with those offered by the the United States.

The London Globe, a journal regarded as semi-official, editorially remarks that Maximilian will be highly favored by fortune and prove his ability if he can vanquish the adverse circumstances which surround him. The Globe thinks Maximilian's success very doubtful, and hopes it will not be a case of calamity to the people.

A French paper describes a hail storm surpassing anything witnessed by the oldest inhabitant as follows:

The Emancipateur of Cambrai confirms the almost incredible story already reported by another journal of that town of the stoppage of the navigation on the St. Quentin canal by accumulation of hail stones of enormous size. The entrance of the canal at Vendunile is obstructed by a block of ice of the size of 40,000 cubic yards, and 600 workmen employed to break up this frozen mass, have great difficulty in making any impression upon it with their pickaxes. A government engineer, M. Lemoyer, is on the spot, and the Minister of Public Works and the Inspector General of Bridges and Highways, were expected.

Madrid letters, confirming the long standing impression that a political convulsion, if not a revolution, was at hand, say that the Narvaez cabinet is on its last legs. The Spaniards are now showing their opposition by means analogous to those used by the Italians toward Austria in 1858.

An important decision has been announced by the Lord Chancellor touching the asserted privileged sanctity of the secrets of the confessional. It is made in connection with the hearing in the case of the famous Road murder, where the confession of the crime by Miss Constance Kent to her clergyman, Rev. Mr. Wagner, is sought to be put in testimony. The clergyman's refusal has led to the above important declaration before the House of Lords that there are no such privileged communications according to English law.

A large number of the imported young salmon have lately died in Tasmania. It is thought they were too crowded in the ponds containing them, and it was contemplated to turn the survivors, now seven or eight inches long, out into the river to take their chance. Nature and their own instincts may do more for them than man.

An officer in garrison at Lille has given a dinner to some friends, at which the principal dish was the roasted shoulder of a lion, killed by M. Chassing, in Africa, on the 31st of March last. The meat had the flavor of highly-pickled wild bear, and was eaten, we hear, with much relish by the guests.

Extensive gold-fields have been discovered in a portion of the Canterbury province, on the west coast of New Zealand.

Accounts from the French departments state that a rise had taken place in the corn markets in consequence of the hot weather in the month of April.

EXTRAORDINARY EFFECTS OF LIGHTNING.—The Battleboro (Vt.) Phœnix says: "On the evening of the 11th inst., during a thunder storm in Jacksonville, Vt., the lightning struck the ground on the Peter Holbrook Hill, half a mile from the village, plowing a ditch about five rods long and four or five feet wide, and three to five feet deep, throwing out stones of several hundred pounds weight, a distance of two or three rods, and branched out from the ditch in all directions, perforating and tearing up the earth for more than ten rods, and performing many curious freaks among the trees, roots and stones. The shaking of the earth was tremendous.

WHEAT CROP IN MICHIGAN.—A correspondent writes to the Dowagiac Republican, that the wheat crop in the southwestern counties of Michigan looks uncommonly promising. The late sowing last fall, on account of the protracted drought, saved it from an attack of the fly, and a continued covering of snow during the entire winter saved it from winter killing, and it has this spring the bright coloring of perfect health.

United States
7.30 LOAN.
THIRD SERIES.
$230,000,000.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General Subscription Agent for the sale of United States Securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the
7.30 LOAN.
These notes are issued under date of July 15th, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into
U. S. 5-20 Six per cent.
GOLD-BEARING BONDS.
These Bonds are now worth a handsome premium; and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State, County, and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum to their value, according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.
The interest at 7 30 per cent. amounts to
One cent per day on a $50 note.
Two cents per day on a $100 note.
Ten cents per day on a $500 note.
Twenty cents per day on a $1000 note.
One Dollar per day on a $5000 Note.
Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.
The Notes of this Third Series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent., instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe.
The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven-thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.
The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.
The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three-tenths per cent in currency. This is
The Only Loan in Market
Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the Great Popular Loan of the People.
Less than $300,000,000 of the loan authorized by Congress are now on the market. This amount at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans.
In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks, and private bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

JAY COOKE,
SUBSCRIPTION AGENT,

CITY MATTERS.

For additional local see fourth page.

TROUBLE BREWING.—Yesterday morning the proprietors of the lager beer breweries notified their customers that the price of beer had been advanced from ten to twelve dollars per barrel. They allege that owing to the prosecutions which were lately instituted against them in the United States Court for making false returns, they are unable to sell at the former prices, and call upon the retail dealers to assist in making up the losses which they have sustained. Many of the saloon keepers declined to accede to the advance, and announced their intention of confining their business hereafter to the sale of wines and ales. If this action becomes general, the lovers of lager may experience difficulty in procuring a supply of the beverage. The saloon keepers also state that they intend prosecuting all the brewers who may hereafter open their places of business on Sunday. It is a well known fact that many of the brewers, particularly in the vicinity of Troy Hill, Reserve township, are kept open on Sunday, and that a large amount of beer is retailed, averaging, in some instances, from fifty to one hundred barrels. The authorities have for years been endeavoring to break up this traffic, but as the profits on the sales are large, the brewers paid their fines and continued to desecrate the Sabbath. If the retail dealers, however, organize and make a combined effort, they will undoubtedly succeed in closing their doors, and they can rely upon securing the assistance and co-operation of all order loving citizens.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.—Before Hon. Wilson McCandless. The following business was transacted in this Court yesterday:

At the request of Post Office Agent Rowe, a writ was issued to Marshal Murdoch for the arrest of Harrison Conn and William Sharks, alias Jackson, alias Holmes, now in Luzerne county, charged with entering the Post Office at Colevillo, Sussex county, New Jersey, and abstracting therefrom a large amount of money and stamps. The accused are colored men, and the offense is alleged to have been committed some two months since.

On motion of District Attorney Carnahan processes were issued for the arrest of five persons charged with conspiring with Rolls, in Clearfield county, to resist the enrolling officer of that district in the discharge of his duties.

An argument was heard on the demurrer in the case of the United States vs. the distillery of Henry Shirley. The Court reserved its decision in the case for advice.

CAPTAIN WM. O'HARA ROBINSON.—The remains of this gallant officer, who was killed in the battle of the Wilderness, have been brought home by his brother, Mr. James Robinson, and will be interred from his mother's residence, on Federal street, Allegheny, this afternoon at three o'clock. Captain Robinson entered the service of his country in 1861, as a private in the 61st Pennsylvania Regiment, and after serving for some months, was promoted to a Lieutenancy for gallantry on the battle-field. He entered Grant's campaign as a Captain, and fell while gallantly leading his company, sword in hand, in one of the bloody battles of the Wilderness. The deceased was twenty-two years old, and was the eldest son of the late William O'Hara Robinson, Esq., of Allegheny, and a grandson of the venerable General William Robinson, Jr.

RECEPTION OF OUR GALLANT SOLDIERS.—At the solicitation of a number of citizens, Mayor Lowry has issued a call for a public meeting to be held this afternoon at three o'clock, at the Board of Trade Rooms, for the purpose of making arrangements to accord our gallant soldiers a fitting reception upon their return to their homes. The matter should not longer be delayed, as the troops have already commenced to arrive. The 83d regiment is now in the city, and the 140th and 145th are expected hourly. Other regiments will quickly follow, and unless prompt and liberal action is taken, our brave soldiers will have cause to accuse our citizens of a want of appreciation of their services.

SOLDIERS PAID OFF.—During the month of May, five hundred and sixty-six men were mustered out here, and paid off by Major Errett. Of these two hundred were drafted men and substitutes, one hundred belonging to the Twenty-second Cavalry, and the balance represented nearly every regiments in the State, having been mustered out individually. The sum required to pay off these men was about $150,000.

TRANSFERRED.—Dr. J. C. Levis, Post Surgeon has been transferred from the Military Hospital in this city, to Camp Reynolds, at which place a large number of Western Pennsylvania troops will shortly be concentrated for muster and discharge.

THE ALLEGHENY NIGHT POLICE.—Great complaint is expressed by the residents of Allegheny at the meagre police force which is detailed to guard the city at night. There are now but six public watchmen, and it is impossible for that small number to patrol the city. If Mayor Morrison would take the responsibility of following Mayor Lowry's example, and organize an "emergency" force, he would add much to his popularity among the citizens.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF A WAGON.—A few nights ago, a citizen of Allegheny left a new spring wagon on the street, in front of his stable, and the next morning discovered that it had disappeared mysteriously. A dilapidated vehicle was found in the vicinity which gave rise to the suspicion that a trade had been effected, without, however, the consent of both parties.

SALARY NOT INCREASED.—The School Directors of Cambria County met in Convention at the Court House in Ebensburg, on Saturday, for the purpose of considering the propriety of increasing the salary of the Superintendent of the public schools of the county from $800 to $1,000. The increase was defeated by a vote of seventeen yeas to eighteen nays.

MARINE RAILWAY.—Messrs. Groves, Heize & Co. have commenced to build a Marine Railway at Monongahela City, to be used for repairing boats and barges. The railway will be in operation next month.

A PATRIOTIC LETTER.

Bishop McIlvaine on Political Preaching.

The following letter addressed by Bishop McIlvaine to a clergyman well known in Cincinnati, will be read with interest, and inspire increased admiration for its venerable author. The Galesburg (Illinois) Free Press briefly states the circumstances under which this letter was written, and we quote its explanation, though Mr. Cracraft's persecutions have already been described in our columns:

It is well known by the people here that the Episcopal clergyman of this place, the Rev. Mr. Cracraft, has been subjected to great annoyances growing out of the complaints of some few members of his congregation, to the Bishop of this diocese, on account of his preaching what were called political sermons. These complaints were formally sent by Bishop Whitehouse, of this diocese, to Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio, (as Mr. Cracraft was a member of that diocese,) in order that he might be tried for the same, and insisting that he should be so. In the course of the correspondence upon the subject, the following letter was received by Mr. Cracraft from the honored and noble Bishop of Ohio:

CINCINNATI, February 13.

REV. AND DEAR SIR: I did not feel at liberty while your case was sub judice to express my sense of the complaint against you on the ground of political preaching. I have seen nothing in the discourses and parts of discourses which you have sent me, as being all in that direction which you have preached inconsistent with the propriety of the pulpit or of a Christian ministry; while all that I have read is highly becoming to the character and duty of a loyal man. I think a congregation may well be content to lose such members as, in these times and with the great cause of our beloved country at stake, could be offended at such utterances, and especially on account of them forsake your ministry and bring formal accusation against you. The same people would have been equally offended had they been present when the pastoral letter of the House of Bishops was read at the last general convention, and with me for writing it. Should you preach on the duty of your people supporting, with their prayers, Mr. Lincoln as President of the United States, and the Congress which has lately voted on emancipation, your sermons would be just as political, and those wise and loyal people would have as much reason to be offended, and yet it would be just what we do every Sunday in the prayers.

It is quite intelligible that different ministers may have different views as to how much a minister should, even in these times, introduce such topics into his sermons; but our church has not been so silly as to make a law against political preaching, or any amount of it an offence—leaving the when and the how much entirely to private judgment. Except in such times as these, I prefer total abstinence, except where questions go down into the very ground of ordinary morality—such as tribute to whom tribute, honor to whom honor, obey magistrates, &c.

A man must be a cold-hearted professor of loyalty indeed, who, in these days of tribulation, can avoid giving utterance to such sentiments as you have preached. Happily, it seems that God is mercifully bringing to a conclusion this terrible war, begun in treason most foul, for the security and extension of a slavery most hateful, continued in a spirit of atrocity toward prisoners by those who began it, incredible, without such evidences as have been accumulated upon us—and I am most thankful to believe to be ended, under God's guiding and overruling hand, in the opening of every prison door of the bondage it sought to seal, and in making our nation more united and prosperous than ever. It has shaken the foundation of the prison, till the very jailor, trembling and excited, asks how he may be saved from the expected ruins.

Yours, affectionately,
CHAS. P. McILVAINE.

A Washington letter speaking of the large gathering of troops in Texas, says: Whether many of the "Bully Boys in Blue" will enlist under General Ortega as emigrants remains to be seen. The General made a favorable impression here, and it was pleasant to witness his restless black eyes gleam with delight as he sat in the President's pavilion on Tuesday and Wednesday, and witnessed the legions of Meade and Sherman march past.

Jacob Thompson and the Phosphorus Incendiaries.

The Detroit Tribune in commenting on the letter of Jacob Thompson, in which, among other things, he denies having had any connection with the hotel burning in New York city, says: The hardihood of the rebel agent in making this denial astonishes us. It is a matter of documentary proof, known to us, that Jacob Thompson was the originator of the hotel burning plot—that he hired the men to do it—that he gave them the money, Confederate States money, of which he was custodian, to bear the expenses of the villains to New York—that on their return, he denounced them for not having conducted their work more successfully—that he was denounced in the streets of Toronto by some of the returned ruffians to whom he declined to give more money, with which to escape to Halifax, they distrusting the salubrity of the Canadian atmosphere, and that his denial of any participation in the affair, is the most transcendant mendacity. There are facts about the machinations of the rebel agents in Canada, yet to be made public, that will astonish all who read or hear them. At this time we cannot go into details about the operations of Thompson above alluded to, but we wish it distinctly understood that our information is reliable, and such as in due time Thompson will be defied to dispute. It comes from men who know personally of what they say. There is not a more guilty man on the continent, for participation in all the most shameful features of the rebellion than Thompson. After the hotel burning project was tried and failed, some of the more high minded men in Canada demanded to know of Thompson if he had actually engaged in that barbarous business. He confessed that he had sent incendiaries to New York city, but declared that they had exceeded his instructions. The fact is, that he directed the twelve incendiaries sent by him, of whom Kennedy was one, exactly what to do, and was greatly enraged that they did not do more. The very expressions of his disappointment and disgust, are matters of written record in this city.

The utter falsehood of Thompson's statement about this matter, which we happen to have the means of exposing, leaves no doubt in our minds of the equal falsehood of his own denials. Now, that the rebellion has collapsed, all the rebel agents in Canada are protesting their innocence, and denying that they have any knowledge of assassination conspiracies, incendiary plots, bank robberies, Lake Erie raids, or anything of the kind. But they are incorrigible liars, and no matter how positive or plausible the statements they make, there is not a word of truth in them. We hope that no loyal man will be deceived by their piteous stories, concocted to excite sympathy and avert retribution. If the rebellion had not failed, they would have boasted of the atrocities they now deny.

Coal Miners' Strike in Ohio—They are Dispersed by the Military.

A combination of operatives of some of the coal mines located in what is called the Newman Creek Valley, has been existing for some time. The miners set upon a party of new men employed by Messrs. Rhodes, Card & Co., (men not members of their union,) as they were about entering the bank, on Saturday morning, to begin their day's labor, and cruelly beat three of their number. Taking possession of the bank, they announced their intention of prohibiting any laborers from working the mines until their terms (higher wages) were complied with. The rioters having driven off those who desired to work, next proceeded to the houses of the "blacklegs," as the new employees are termed, and abused their families, stoning them, and threatening to burn and kill as they went.

These demonstrations created the greatest consternation, and application was made to the Sheriff for a force sufficient to arrest the rioters. Four companies of the 45th Ohio National Guard, under command of Lieut. Col. Dougherty, was detailed, and took a special train from Massillon to the scene of the riot.

The force having reached the mines, Company F, Captain Flora, was deployed, and advanced to the miners' village, where they were reported in force. Failing to find them in any organized body to offer resistance, the command was divided into squads and sent in search of those who were known as leaders and instigators of the mob. These squads met some of the rioters offering some show of resistance, who were fired upon in their attempts to escape. One party among the number, finding a small squad of soldiers, set upon and beat two of them before force sufficient was concentrated to effect their arrest.

Quite a number of the leaders have been arrested, some ten of whom are now in Massillon under guard.

The miners throughout that section of the State have been on a strike for weeks. The furnaces of Messrs. Burton & Co. are now stopped from lack of coal.

A Curious Story About the Emperor Napoleon.

A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser relates the following curious story about the Emperor Napoleon: "Are you ready to believe that the Emperor Napoleon is so wearied of life that, were it not for the interests of his dynasty, he would willingly and at once pass on to the next world? Will you believe this on sound authority? It is no more easy to wear a crown now than in the days that Shakespeare wrote of, and even Louis Napoleon has eaten sufficiently of the tree of imperial knowledge. The one thing, however, that, according to his own theory, is stronger than genius, i. e., fate, forces him to live that the France of the Bonapartes may not die. Can you believe that no man more deeply regrets the Mexican mistake than the Emperor? He was led into it by the unprincipled De Morney and the Empress. The latter being a tool of the Jesuits, is just weak enough as a woman to be strong in her influence for evil over her husband, whose character is known to be vacillating. You doubt it? Then listen to the following true story. Some months ago, when the Emperor was quite ill, the men of the coup d' etat became alarmed, and, through their spokesman, De Morney, said to him: 'You must give me an order for the arrest of Prince Napoleon in case of accident to you. Your dynasty is not secure if he is free.' The order was signed, but Louis Napoleon recovered. It happened, however, as it always happens, that Prince Napoleon, hearing of the nice little plot hatched against him, went in his turn to the Emperor, reproached him for his want of confidence, and then added: 'The past cannot be recalled, but the future shall make amends for it. I must be put into the position which in the event of your death will legally make me Regent.' It was then that the Emperor signed a second order by which Plon-Plon becomes President of the Council. DeMorney being dead, of course the Prince will have every thing his own way. The empire is tottering, owing to the failing health of those who made it. Already most of them have one foot in the grave. The Emperor's policy would be much more liberal were he not still controlled by these men of the coup d' etat. Old and feeble, he has not strength enough to shake them off and call about him better minds and purer characters; hence thinking Frenchmen regard the future with apprehension, nothing seems politically solid.

An English Opinion of our Country.

The London News in an article discussing recent events in this country, says:

"The Americans appreciate personal greatness; they know when they have a masterly General, and how to treat him; they are not dealing with Grant as we dealt with Charles Napier; they also know the worth of a great magistrate as we have just seen. But there is one thing in their eyes greater than the greatest president or general—it is the public law of their country. So when Mr. Lincoln died, a few gentlemen waited on the Vice President to announce and verify the fact, the Chief Justice administered the oath of office, and Mr. Johnson was President of the United States. It is a great addition to the security of the institutions when all classes of a community are able to regard the political law of the commonwealth as their best friend and protector.

* * * "On this side of the Atlantic the question has been asked with strong interest, but generally with incredulity. Will the United States voluntarily lay aside these tremendous instruments of power. Is it not rather certain that they will be seduced by national pride to place their glory in arms and to assail their neighbors? And the intelligence brought by the Persia supplies an answer to these questions. The Northern pedlars, as they were contemptuously called, beat the chivalry, and broke their power, and are now ready and impatient to return to their shops and their plows.

FOR MORE THAN TWENTY YEARS Matthews' Venetian Hair Dye has stood the test of trial, and is constantly increasing in public favor.

The VENETIAN HAIR DYE is the best and cheapest made. Its price is only 75 Cents, and each bottle contains double the quantity of dye in those usually sold for $1.

THIS HAIR DYE is manufactured by a peculiar process which renders it infinitely superior to any dye in the market. Being complete in one bottle, no preparation is required, which greatly simplifies the application.

IN USING THIS DYE, you avoid that rusty, dead appearance by which dyed hair and whiskers are so readily recognized, when an inferior article has been used, as it produces a perfectly natural color of any shade that is desired, from a rich brown to a jetty, lustrous black, that will not smut, crock or stain the clothing. Invest 75 cents and you will be convinced. Sold by all Druggists and Fancy Goods Dealers. A. I. MATHEWS, Manufacturer. DEMAS BARNES & Co, New York, Wholesale Agents. my19

NOTICE TO ALL DELINQUENT CORPORATIONS ORGANIZED UNDER ANY LAW OF THE STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA.
Notice is hereby given to all companies incorporated by or under any law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and organized at any time prior to the first Monday of November, 1864, that have failed to make report to the Auditor General under the act approved April 21, 1858, and the act approved April 30, 1864, that they are required to report to the Auditor General forthwith, as follows, to-wit:
In case a dividend has been declared, the Treasurer shall report, under oath, the amount of capital paid in, the date, amount, and rate per cent. of each dividend during the year ending the first Monday of November, 1864, and any previous year or years in which the company may have had an existence; and in case no dividend has been declared during the year or years ending as aforesaid, then an appraisement of the cash value of the stock as it existed between the first and fifteenth days of November, must be made by the President or Treasurer, and a majority of the Directors, under oath. When an appraisement is made the report should also state at what time the company was organized.
In addition to the above report, under the act of April 21, 1858, companies not paying a tax on tonnage are required to make a separate report, under oath, of the Treasurer, of the amount of net earnings or income received during the period from April 30 to November 1, 1864, in accordance with the second section of the act approved April 30, 1864.
COMPANIES "INCORPORATED BY OTHER STATES, and doing business in this Commonwealth," are notified that they are made subject to the tax on net earnings or incomes under the second section of the act of April 30, 1864, and are required to report to the Auditor General the amount of such net earnings or income received between the 30th of April and the 1st of November, 1864.
All delinquent companies incorporated by or under any law of the State of Pennsylvania will be afforded a reasonable time in which to make the several reports required by law, and above enumerated; but continued neglect or refusal will subject them to forfeiture of charter, under the second proviso of the second section of the act of April 30 1864, which is in the following words:
"Provided further, That any corporation which has failed to make returns to the Commonwealth as required by the act of April 21, A. D. 1858, entitled 'An act for the better securing to the Commonwealth the payment of taxes due by incorporated companies,' may make such return within sixty days after the passage of this act, any law to the contrary notwithstanding; and all delinquent companies failing or refusing to make full returns and payment to the State as required by the general laws of this Commonwealth in relation thereto, shall have all their rights and privileges declared forfeited by proclamation from the Governor.

FRIDAY, June 2—P. M.

—The stock market continues dull, and prices are still drooping. U. S. Five-Twenties were quoted at 102 in New York to-day, although gold was higher than on Saturday.

Oil stocks continue to fall in price, as a general rule. The exceptions are the rare cases in which a stroke is made, and as developments have not been very active of late, these are like angels' visits, few and far between. There are, however, such reports from the superintendents as warrant us in predicting good strikes upon the territory of some of our companies which are now very much depressed. The Ohio region will soon show some returns from the numerous deep wells new going down.

The United States Oil Company, of New York, has made a Quarterly dividend of seven per cent. The stock of this company is largely held in this city, and orders are daily sent on for it at present prices. It is quoted to day in New York at $17 25; Rynd, $2 65; Tack, $1 25; Excelsior; $3 72. This latter company owns, among other properties, the celebrated Mountain Well which recently stopped, and the price is considerably reduced in consequence. Until recently it made regular monthly dividends of four per cent, which have been suspended since the stoppage of the Mountain Well.

Rynd Farm is said by those who know the property to be a very good purchase at present rates. The company is developing with extraordinary energy, and having ample means, derived from producing wells, it is able by withholding dividends for the present, to develope its large and valuable property.

At our evening Board there was too slim attendance to give any spirit to the market, and not a sufficient number of transactions to establish any just quotations. The prices are therefore merely nominal. The sales consisted of

The Crops in the West.

[From the Burlington (Iowa) Register, May 25th.]

The crops in these parts look fine. With the exception of a little cold weather we had a week ago, the season so far has been very prosperous. Grass, oats and wheat never looked more promising at this season of the year, and corn is coming up rapidly. If the chinch bug will attend to his own business and let others' business alone, we shall have an abundant harvest, doubtless. Our farmers hereabouts have tried to head off this troublesome insect by sowing less wheat. There is less wheat sown this year in proportion to the ground cultivated than usual, by two-thirds the number of acres.

From the Carlyle (Ill.) Banner, 25th.

This has been an unusually backward spring with the farmers so far as planting corn is concerned. Owing to the wet weather, many have been unable to sow oats; yet the farmers are rapidly putting in their corn crop.

Advices from all parts of the country tell us that the wheat crop never looked better.

From the Ogle County (Ill.) Reporter, 28th.

CHINCH BUGS.—We learn that these insects have made their appearance again. Some pieces of barley have already been damaged by them so that it has turned yellow. We have not heard of any damage to the wheat as yet, but it is too early. Some tell us that the wet weather of this spring is favorable to crops, as it packs the ground so as to prevent their working.

From the Genesco (Ill) Republican, 26th.

We hear of quite a number of farmers who have plowed in their wheat fields, and have planted them to corn. The chinch bug is already making havoc among the crops, and farmers dare not trust to their wheat. Under the circumstances there should have been no wheat sowed in this county this spring; the folly of such a course is being felt. A good deal of the wheat land will be turned under, and other crops planted instead.

From the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Eagle, May 24th.

We have within a few weeks past traveled over a considerable portion of this county north of Grand river, and have had our eyes open to see the condition of the wheat crop. The prospects are very flattering. There are spots in the most fields that are winter killed, but they are generally not large or numerous, and the cool spring has operated to thicken up the stools which are left on these spots. We look for a very good crop.

Rates of Freight on the Western Railroads.

The Chicago Tribune complains that notwithstanding the large decline in gold and country produce, the rates of freight on the railroads leading to that city, remain at the high figures to which they were advanced by the roads when gold was at 280; and thinks that the Western roads should follow the example of roads leading East, in the reduction of transportation, so that producers may be able to market their products.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

New York Finance and Trade.

Special Dispatch to Western Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 2.

STOCKS.

At the Stock Exchange this morning there was a firmer feeling on the Railway List throughout first call. There was no pressure to sell, and rather more disposition to buy Stocks, both for cash and on sellers' options. There was a general improvement in prices, with the greatest advance in Northwest common Shares. During the day the market was strong with considerable movement in Erie, Hudson and Pittsburg. The miscellaneous list was higher, on Atlantic Mail. Governments were firmer and more in demand during the latter part of the day, but they opened weak in the morning. Railway mortgages and State bonds continue quiet and steady. The export demand for gold continues good and fluctuations small. Foreign Exchange firm, without much activity.

MONEY.

The demand for Money is moderate, and the market is easy at six per cent.

PETROLEUM STOCKS

Quiet and steady, with fair sales. The United States has declared a dividend of 7 per cent. It is announced that other companies will declare dividends soon. The sales to day were at the following rates: Buchanan, $1; Cherry Run, 47c; Highgate, 52c; Excelsior, $3 70, Oceanic, $2 10; Commonwealth, $4.

PETROLEUM STOCK BOARD.

PETROLEUM

Inactive at 35 for crude, 49@50 for refined in bond, and 68@69 for free.

DRY GOODS.

The Express says the great activity in dry goods is over for the season, yet desirable fabrics are very much in demand. This is especially true in regard to black goods, grain silks, jaconets grenadines, both plain and figured. The market is almost bare of these goods. Bleached and brown cotton goods are somewhat lower, but prints are scarce and firm.

New York Iron Market.

June 1.

Iron—There is almost nothing doing in any description. In a small way, Eglinton Scotch Pig may be quoted $41; Glengarnock, $42, and Gartsherrie, $45, cash. The late arrivals of Scotch are being placed in store, cost and charges not being obtainable. We notice 100 tons No. 1, extra American Pig at $38; 70 do No. 2 Foundry, $34; and 5@500 do Trenton street and T Rails, $95, cash. Store prices of English Bar, &c., have declined $5@10 ⅌ ton, with still a very light business. Trenton American Refined Bar sells in lots to the Trade, at $95. We quote prices for English and American Refined Bar, $110@115; do Common, $100@105; Scroll, $150@212; Ovals and Half Round, $137.50@147, 50; Band $142,50; Horse Shoe $145 @150; Rods, (5/8@3-16 inch) $112 50@160; Hoop, $150@230; and Nail Rods 10@11 cents, less 5 ⅌ cent. cash., cash.

Nails—Cut are again rather lower, though it is said they are not bringing cost. We quote cut 5¼@5½c; clinch 6¾@7c; forged horse 30c for 8d; copper 50c; yellow metal 35c; and zinc 2½c, cash.

Steel—All descriptions of English are firm at our quotations. American makers, though nominally protected by the tariff, cannot compete with the English in consequence of the Internal Revenue Tax, and the high prices of coal and labor—the manufacturers, consequently, are doing very little and prices are nominal.—Shipping List.

Cotton at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, May 31.

The market was very inactive. There was a good demand at 35c for middling, which was yesterday's price, but holders would not accept this price for considerable lots, and consequently a small business was done. The tone of the market was stiffer than yesterday, on the whole. Sales comprised thirty bales good middling at 38c; 40 do strictly middling at 37c; 10 do middling at 36½c; 10 do at 36c; 12 do, last evening, and 4 to-day, at 35c; 45 do low middling at 32c, and 2 do repacked and damaged at 22c per lb.

St. Louis Tobacco Market.

The market shows continued firmness, and sales comprise 46 hhds, including 10 green and damaged lugs from $4 1c to $4 80; 4 factory do, from $5 20 to $5 90; 6 planters' do, from $6 70 to $8 50; 13 common leaf from $9 to $13 75; 3 medium do. from $14 25 to $16 25; 7 common manufacturing leaf from $17 to $20; 2 medium do. at $22 75@25 75, and 1 good do. at $39 25; also 2 bxs at $14 25@15 75 ⅌ 100 lbs. Bids on 24 hhds were rejected.

River Matters.

Louisville.—Wednesday's Press says: The river was slowly receding yesterday, with fourteen feet nine inches water in the canal last evening by the mark. During the previous twenty-four hours the river had fallen fifteen inches at the wharf, and about twenty inches at Portland. The weather was cloudy yesterday morning, with a light sprinkle of rain, but pleasant during the day.

On the falls last evening there were about twelve feet steamboat water, and the river falling fast. That was sufficient for all navigable purposes, and we think flatboats laden with coal will be able to descend the falls to-day, but not later.

The rates of freight from Memphis to Little Rock, Arkansas river, have been advanced to $1 50 per 100 pounds. That is a high rate of freight.

St Louis.—Wednesday's Democrat says: The river is still falling. Weather pleasant and business improving—almost brisk. Shipments to the Missouri are immense and seemingly not about to decrease.

There is sixteen feet water to Cairo, seven feet to Keokuk, thirty-nine inches on the lower rapids, four and a half feet on the upper rapids, five and a half feet in the Illinois and five feet in the Lower Missouri. The Illinois and Mississippi are falling steadily. Accounts received at St. Joseph on Sunday last, are to the effect that the Upper is on a huge rise at Omaha, &c. It was swelling fast on Saturday and Sunday at St. Joseph, at the rate of about two feet per day and a prospect of immediately swelling at a still more rapid rate. It is probably the advance of the "June rise." Below will be found additional news from the Upper Missouri.

The Mercury is either raised or soon will be, two submarines having gone to work on her. She is sunk below this city.

Mr. M. D. Condiff transferred himself last evening from the office of the Brilliant to that of the Magenta, and Mr. R. D. Shields has taken charge of the Brilliant's office.

Captain Henry Switzer, J. B. Weaver, clerk, and the mate of the Magenta, remain in the city until the matters with which they are charged shall be cleared up. We hope it will appear that the matter has been exaggerated, or at least, partly the result of a misunderstanding. Captains Switzer and Weaver are certainly experienced, careful and efficient steamboat officers.

Mr. J. A. Stewart, who left Virginia City Montana, last fall for the States, via the Yellow Stone and Missouri, makes the following report:

A company of about one hundred built boats at the head waters of the Yellow Stone, and came down the stream. They had no difficulty until they arrived within forty miles of the mouth, when the river was found to be frozen over. This was on the 19th of November. The party wintered at Fort Union and the place where the boats stopped. On the 28th of April the ice was broken up so that the party could safely proceed on their journey. They embarked and arrived safely at Omaha. They met no hostile Indians either on the Yellowstone or Missouri. It was believed that the Indians had gone to stop the wagon road expedition through the Black Hills. It is said that the Indians declare that no white man shall ever build a road through that country. There is an unusual quantity of snow in the mountains. The boats met the steamer Yellowstone —which was the highest up—near Fort Rice, about 200 miles below the mouth of the Yellowstone. The St. John was 200 miles above Randall. Other boats were met at various points. All were getting along tolerably well. Mr. Stewart thinks the Yellowstone can never be navigated over forty miles above its mouth on account of bars.

St. Joseph.—The river yesterday morning commenced swelling and kept up throughout the day, having rose in ten hours one foot and a half. Large quantities of drift wood and foam were floating on its bosom.

The Kate Kinney arrived from Omaha yesterday with a host of passengers and a light cargo. She made one of the fastest trips known on record. She left Omaha at four o'clock on Friday, and arrived at this point yesterday at three o'clock, having laid over one night on the way down, making the trip of over one hundred and fifty miles in ten hours.—Herald.

MISCELLANEOUS.—In the National Intelligencer, July 10, 1818, we find a letter from New Orleans, dated June 8, which has the following in reference to the arrival there of the steamboat Ohio, under charge of Captain H. M. Shrever. The captain's confident expectations of the trip being eventually made in less than twenty days have been fully realized:

Arrived here on Saturday night, the new steamboat Ohio, Captain H. M. Shreves, from the Falls of the Ohio. This fine vessel is 450 tons burthen, and constructed in such a manner as to carry a much greater quantity of goods than any other boat on the river. Her timbers and bottom planks are so thick as to render it next to impossible that any sawyer should pierce them; and thus she may defy most of these misfortunes which have lately happened to smaller boats on the river. Nor will these means of security impede the velocity of her march. We are glad that the captain confidently expects to make the passage in less than twenty days.

Yesterday a released Union prisoner, from Andersonville, arrived in the city, bringing us the following gentle epistle from Captain Dick Fowler, formerly of Paducah, Kentucky, who was among the first to join the rebels at the commencement of the rebellion:

"RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA, May 16, 1865.—DEAR FRIEND—'Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth.' Our cause has failed. The confeds have gone up the spout. Let the past bury the past. Let's cement our broken country and make the United States the King-bee of the world. Love to friends and Ben Egan. As ever, yours, DICK FOWLER."

Captain Dick Fowler is extensively known along the line of the Western and Southern waters. Aside from his rebel proclivities, we never knew a more energetic, enterprising and social man; and now that he has "taken the oath," we doubt not he will soon turn up at Paducah, a "wiser and better man."

VALUABLE RAILROAD HOTEL. At Downington at private sale.—The subscriber offers for sale all that valuable property known as the Pennsylvania Railroad House in the Borough of Dowington, 33 miles west from Philadelph'a.

The house is situated in an angle, containing about one and a half acres, between the Pennsylvania Central Railroad and the Philadelphia and Lancaster turnpike, fronting on each.

The improvements consist of a good and substantial three-story stone house, rebuilt and improved a few years since, containing thirty large, airy and well ventilated rooms, with a large and convenient basement kitchen, supplied with pure hydrant water as is also the first and second stories. Connected with the above is a good frame stable, two ice houses and a large vegetable garden

The property has been occupied as a Hotel for the past thirty years, and as a business stand is unrivaled by any on the line of road between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

This is a first class station, on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, the ticket and telegraph offices of the company being on the property. All the passenger trains on said road stop at this place, and the through express train west stops a sufficient time for passengers to dine. The buildings are admirably adapted to the wants and convenience of the public, and the largely increasing business renders it worthy the attention of persons seeking such investment. LOST, STOLEN AND MISSING SECURITIES.—I propose to issue, on or about the 15th of June, and monthly thereafter, in pamphlet form, a correct and reliable list of all Lost, Stolen or Missing Securities, such as Railroad Bonds and Stocks, State, City and County Bonds, Government Bonds, Stocks and Notes, etc., etc.

These will be so specified and arranged in tabular form that easy reference may be made to any one description of security, and it is believed a great safeguard will be furnished to all parties buying or dealing in such property.

The importance of such a pamphlet to the community may be inferred from the fact that the undersigned possesses a list of over 2000 different certificates of Government Stocks, which have been caveated at Washington.

All parties who have suffered the loss in any way of any description of Securities, and all Corporations and State, City or County Officers, who have been notified of the loss of securities, are invited to furnish the undersigned with a full description thereof, which will be inserted in the list without charge, furnishing the best publication of such loss.

ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.—The best Patent Artificial Leg in the United States, and the only one in Pittsburgh, is made by REICHENBACH, No. 88 Fourth street, near Market street.

No other person in this city has a patent for Artificial Limbs. His Patent Leg resembles the natural limb in all its movements, as well as in appearance, and cannot be detected by an experienced eye. It met the approbation of the Army Board in Washington, January 12th, 1864, at which time a patent was granted the inventor. Parties in this city and elsewhere have attempted to imitate the patent, but have only produced worthless limbs.

Crutches can be dispensed with the first time the leg is worn. On horseback, it has the power and movements as when walking.

REICHENBACH also manufactures an ARTIFICIAL HAND, which is natural in appearance and movements, and when worn but a short time by those requiring them, are indispensable. fe14-ly
